Victoria, Vancouver, Ottawa and Toronto forecasts were 90 per cent correct.

Six Reported Dead

ONSET, Mass. (AP) — State Fire Marshal Edward H. Whittemore said today he had received a report six persons were killed and 25 injured when a terrific gas explosion rocked the centre of this Buzzards Bay resort, flattening four wooden buildings. Police of the nearby town of Wareham said four persons were known to be dead and 18 to 20 persons injured.

Deportation Case

LONDON (CP) — With white-haired Viscount Simon intimating he is "most anxious" to hear from the Attorney-General of Canada on several points, F. A. Brewin of Toronto today ended a 15-hour argument on the question of the deportation of Japanese Canadians before the Privy Council. Mr. Brewin argued on behalf of the Saskatchewan Government and the Co-Operative Committee on Japanese Canadians.

Lion Cub Named After Victoria

Clyde Beatty, his wife, Harriet, and the five-day-old cub, Victoria.

One of three lion cubs born in the Clyde Beatty trained wild animal circus which arrived here Wednesday for a three-day stand, has been named after Victoria.

"We thought we would give all three cubs Canadian names because they were born just before we arrived in Canada," said the famous lion-tamer.

His experience in successfully handling the big cats was easily seen in his off-stage tussle with

Betty, the 500-pound mother of the cubs, when he went to take little Victoria away.

Betty would not be coaxed into another cage away from her cubs, despite Beatty's efforts, in which he used a blunt prod and talked continually to her. So he tried another manoeuvre which proved successful.

Using a bowl of milk to distract her attention for a second, he snatched Victoria out of the cage fractions of a second before the mother leaped at him with lips curled back and an angry snarl coming from her throat. Her huge paw with wicked-looking claws showing just missed his arm.

On their first visit to Vancouver Island, Mr. and Mrs. Beatty were impressed by the climate and scenery.

"But we didn't see a cougar," the lion man laughed, glancing towards the cages of his performing cats.

Hamilton Police Chief Warns On Strike Violence

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP) — A. J. Chamberlain, acting chief of the Hamilton Police force, today warned against acts of intimidation in the strike at the Steel Company of Canada works and announced he had received complaints that the word "scab" had been painted on four Hamilton homes.

The word also appeared on the outside of a downtown welfare office set up by Stelco to enable wives and mothers of workers to obtain information about their kinfolk who have remained inside the plant, where the company says more than 2,000 are maintaining partial production.

Generally, tension slackened in this industrial city, focal point of the strike against Canada's three basic steel plants, as steel workers and the public generally switched attention to efforts of a parliamentary committee at Ottawa to reach a solution of Canada's labor strife.

MAY CALL LEADERS

Members of the National Advisory Committee of the U.S.W.A. were to appear late this afternoon before the Commons Committee on Industrial Relations, which has summoned labor and management chiefs in an attempt to find a formula for settlement. Later, perhaps next week, other union leaders and leaders of the Canadian Congress of Labor will join the Ottawa discussions.

The committee, which swung hurriedly into action Tuesday night, at its second meeting Wednesday deferred action on calling C. H. Millard, Canadian director of the United Steelworkers of America, and H. G. Hilton, general manager of the Steel Co. of Canada, Hamilton.

Action was also withheld on a motion recommending that Labor Minister Mitchell instruct F. B. Kilbourn, controller of the strike-bound steel plants, to enter into immediate negotiations with the union and employers.

Brisk discussion took place on a telegram from C. H. Millard acknowledging the committee's request for his attendance, but the tone of the meeting was that there should be a conciliatory approach.

Summer Here; Temperature 74

Victoria's barometer rose from 62 before noon to 74 at 1:30 today, with the possibility of rising still further, according to the weather bureau.

The temperature is not unusual. Victoria has known as high as 90 degrees. Last year it hovered in the seventies throughout the month.

"But," said the weatherman, "summer is here."

British Bakers Threaten Revolt Over Ration Plan; Housewives Send Protest

LONDON (CP) — The Labor government decided to stand fast today on its plans to ration bread despite a threatened revolt by nearly half the country's bakers, and the Commons in an angry sitting voted a formal investigation of street posters attacking the plan.

Indignant Labor Members of the House voted the investigation after Winston Churchill, former Prime Minister and opposition leader, had taunted them with "I know you do not want free speech. You go further and further on the road to destroying it. We are not in Russia yet."

In another angry exchange across the floor Mr. Churchill shouted "absolutely false and a lying assertion" when Willie Gallagher, Communist, charged the Conservatives had incited the opposition to rationing.

Demand for the investigation of the posters was made by Herbert Morrison, Lord President of the Council. Signed by "The Face the Facts Association," the poster appeared on London walls Wednesday night and declared members of the House who supported rationing were "public enemies and dictators."

Britain Protests

LONDON (CP) — Britain has sent a note of protest to Moscow, complaining of extreme and unwarranted interference in the internal affairs of Hungary. A Foreign Office spokesman said today the representation followed Russian demands for dismissal of the Vice-Minister of Justice, and for withdrawal of immunity for three other officials whom the Soviets accused of anti-Russian statements.

Talmadge Leading

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Former Governor Eugene Talmadge, exponent of "white supremacy," maintained a wide lead in Georgia's race for governor as tabulation of returns from Wednesday's Democratic primary election proceeded with nearly 500,000 votes counted.

The primary — equivalent to the election in Georgia — was the first time negroes had voted in great numbers in the "Deep South." About 135,000 of them registered, and most voted,

The investigation will determine whether there has been any breach of members' privileges. Persons convicted of such a breach may be jailed until Parliament orders their release.

The government's decision to stand steadfast was reported taken at a special cabinet meeting this morning which Food Minister John Strachey attended.

While the Food Minister talked with other government leaders, a delegation waited to present him with a resolution announcing the refusal of the National Association of Master Bakers to collect bread tickets in the rationing scheme set to become effective Sunday.

The resolution, passed at a mass meeting of bakers Wednesday, said the rationing order was impossible to work in its present form. The bakers urged a simplified plan and said that pending its introduction they would continue to supply bread and confectionery without rationing units.

"In the event of prosecutions taking place, the National Association should appeal to all its members for funds to meet costs and fines," the resolution said.

In reference to a statement by Mr. Strachey that legal measures would be taken against those ignoring the order, the resolution deplored this "threat of heavy terms of imprisonment and fines to such a loyal section of the public as the master bakers."

The National Association meeting represented 12,000 out of 25,000 licenced English and Welsh bakers, said F. Broomfield, past president.

Sir Walter Womersley, former Pensions Minister and now president of the National Chamber of Trade, told a London meeting his organization would support the bakers. It represents more than 200,000 retail bakers.

Reports of a bread crisis were also heard in Ulster, where bakery employees were resigning in protest against rationing.

Petitions against the bread scheme, signed by more than 350,000 housewives have been presented to the Crown and another was submitted to the House of Commons today.

Mayor Says City Will Not Block Plans Of Catholics

In view of statements issued by the Ministerial Association and Bishop H. E. Sexton of the Anglican Church on the centenary and parade of the Roman Catholic Church, Mayor Percy George today said he had every intention that the procession should go on and would so recommend to a special conference of the City Council members called for Friday afternoon.

The mayor said: "I have yet to find any legal ground on which the parade could be stopped. The council for years has, without exception, granted permission to every organization requesting a parade and there has been no challenge as to its legality."

STATEMENT ISSUED

Earlier, Protestant ministers of Victoria, except clergy of the Anglican church, issued a statement in which they said they regarded the "pending Roman Catholic demonstrations as most inappropriate in Victoria" but that it was for the "city council's advisers to decide, if necessary, their legality."

The statement was signed by Dr. A. E. Whitehouse, chairman, and Rev. G. R. Easter, secretary, Victoria City Council at a recent meeting referred arrangements for the forthcoming centenary celebrations of the Roman Catholic diocese here, to the ministers for comment.

"We are of the opinion that although our disagreement with the Roman Catholic Church in some matters of creed and dogma is real and deep, nevertheless our belief in religious freedom for all, requires of all consistency, whenever and wherever that is challenged," the statement read.

"But in our judgment, and in the light of our historic background, we hold that as binding on Roman as well as Protestant communities."

The ministers expressed hope for the time when "the Roman Catholic Church will deem it not unseemly, to unite in fraternal spirit with other Christians, especially in those common observances of loyalty which present themselves publicly from time to time."

Minimum Pay Up In Retail And Wholesale Trade

The minimum wage for 11,000 women and girl employees in the British Columbia wholesale and retail trade, which was boosted July 1 from $12.75 to $15.30, today was further boosted.

The weekly wage for those working from 39 to 44 hours a week was set by the Board of Industrial Relations in a new order under the Female Minimum Wage Act at $17. "Women and girls whose working week is less than 39 hours are entitled to an hourly rate of 45 cents with a daily guarantee of four hours pay," the board's announcement said.

"Provision is made for learners of any age, allowing six months to come up to the $17 rate. A graduated scale starting at $11 a week for two months, $13 for two months and $15 for two months is set out in the order.

"For the hourly learners the rates are 30 cents, 35 cents and 40 cents in two-month periods arriving at the 45-cent rate in six months."

Permits must be obtained from the board for those two classes of learners, otherwise they are entitled to the full weekly or hourly wage, the board said.

The new schedules come into effect Aug. 5.

Hours of work are limited to eight in the day or 44 in the week, to conform with the recent amendment to the Hours of Work Act. A rest period of 32 consecutive hours is to be given women and girl employees each week.

Recent orders covering female employees in the office occupation and the hotel and catering industry provided for rates of $18 weekly and the new mercantile order will make for greater uniformity than existed in the past, said the board's announcement.

New Canadian Flag May Fly First Time At Paris Peace Conference

By NORMAN M. MACLEOD
Victoria Times Correspondent

OTTAWA — The new Canadian flag as approved by the joint committee of the House of Commons and the Senate may be flown over the Canadian Embassy in Paris during the coming Peace Conference.

The prospect that Prime Minister King may take the new emblem overseas with him to be given its first unfurling on an occasion dedicated to the promotion of world peace was raised here today by reports circulating in parliamentary circles.

Three reports stated the government doesn't intend to await an act of Parliament to formally adopt the flag which the joint Senate and House of Commons committee endorsed, but that the emblem is to be authorized for use by order-in-council.

Such a course, which incidentally would obviate a debate in both Houses of Parliament, would follow well-established precedents laid down when recognition was given to the Red Ensign, which the new flag is designed to supersede as a distinctive Canadian emblem.

The Red Ensign is the centuries-old flag of the British merchant marine. The British authorities granted Canada the right to use it with the Canadian coat-of-arms superimposed on the fly to make it a distinctive Canadian emblem.

The Canadian government accepted it and, by an order-in-council passed in January, 1924, proclaimed it the appropriate emblem to fly from all Canadian public buildings outside of Canada. The Canadian High Commissioner's office in London and certain Canadian Trade Commissioners' offices abroad were mainly affected by this order-in-council.

REMOVED ALL DOUBT

In January, 1945, the government extended and clarified the status of the Red Ensign. This action was taken similarly by order-in-council, which was passed to "remove any doubt as to the propriety of flying the Red Ensign wherever place or occasion make it desirable to fly a distinctive Canadian flag."

Since the Red Ensign has been given its present status by order-in-council, the government is said to take the view that the emblem replacing it reasonably may derive its authority similarly.

There is a widespread desire in the majority of sections of Parliament to avoid an open flag debate on the floor of both Houses. The feeling is that the emblem which is intended as the signal of national unity shouldn't come into official use through a debate which might inflame racial passions. In addition, there is the desire to expedite the work of the Parliamentary session. A flag debate might very well tie the Commons up for a fortnight, many M.P.'s feel.

Finally, there is the Prime Minister's reported desire to take the new flag overseas with him. That wouldn't be possible if the emblem had to wait for parliamentary ratification before becoming official.

Two Quakes Near Vancouver Island

Two submarine earthquakes of moderate calm but well defined intensity recorded on the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory seismographs, Little Saanich Mountain, late Wednesday night, probably occurred in Queen Charlotte Sound off the northern tip of Vancouver Island, Dr. K. O. Wright of the observatory staff reported today.

Differences in time between preliminary and secondary waves recorded on the first quake indicated, Dr. Wright said, that the shock centred about 400 miles from Victoria. Times of the second quake's waves indicated it centred only about 300 miles from the city.

"The first probably touched off the other," Dr. Wright said. In Seattle the Associated Press quoted Dr. George E. Goodspeed, University of Washington seismologist, as saying of the quakes:

"They were so severe that had they occurred inland the damage would have been considerable."

It was the Seattle seismologist's belief that the quakes may have centred in the well-known submarine fault off the California-Oregon border, although he said they might have occurred off the northern part of Vancouver Island.

Viceregal Pair See Malahat, Saanich

A drive that took them along the Saanich peninsula for the Mill Bay crossing and then over the Malahat, started today's activities for Governor-General and Lady Alexander.

At 10:45 two limousines left Government House carrying the viceregal couple and Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. W. C. Woodward. Also taking the drive were the Alexanders' three children, Brian, Shane and Rose with their friend Henrietta Scott.

Their route was along the East Saanich Road to Mount Newton Cross Road and then along the West Saanich Road to Brentwood. Here the two cars were driven aboard the ferry on its regular run to Mill Bay.

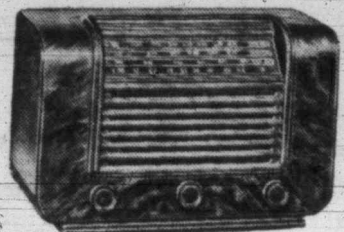

After the trip over the Malahat the viceregal party went to the Royal Canadian Naval College at Royal Roads for a luncheon given by Capt. Wallace C. Creery, R.C.N., commanding officer, and Mrs. Creery.

Railway Prepares For Big Grain Rush, Neal States

WINNIPEG—Preparations for a grain rush that may match the peak of prewar activity are being made by the Canadian Pacific Railway for the coming season, according to W. M. Neal, company vice-president and president of the Canadian Pacific Airlines, in an interview here. He is on an inspection tour of the west which will extend to Victoria.

With the continued urgent demand for grain in Europe and improving shipping conditions, every effort will be made by the C.P.R. to handle a maximum quantity of grain this fall through both eastern and western outlets, Mr. Neal said. During the winter, the railway will undertake to build up the depleted supply in the elevators.

Referring to the current steel strike, Mr. Neal said its most serious effect on the Canadian Pacific would be in delaying delivery of 450 refrigerator cars now on order. These were scheduled to play an important part in the carrying of perishable foodstuffs from British Columbia. Fortunately, he said, all rail supplies ordered for 1946 have been received.

Difficulties facing Canadian railways today are far greater than they were during the war, according to Mr. Neal.

"Then it was just a problem of organization," he said. "Now we are faced with increases in prices and wages, coupled with a steady decline in our earnings. Since April 1 our gross earnings have decreased at the rate of more than a million a week in comparison with last year's figures which, in turn, showed a decrease from the year before."

Mr. Neal expressed hope public support would be given to the present policy of price control.

Wooden Boatbuilders Get 15-Cent Boost

VANCOUVER (CP)—Walkout of 1,200 employees in wooden boatyards here and in New Westminster, scheduled for this morning, was averted Wednesday night with the 11th hour acceptance of the operators' offer of a 15-cents-an-hour wage increase above the board.

At the same time he announced conclusion of an agreement with the boatyard section of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, representing the wooden boatyard operators, William L. White, president of the Marine Workers' and Boatbuilders' Industrial Union (C.I.O.), said the workers had decided to proceed with the strike later in any yards whose operators refused to sign the new agreement.

Later, Walter S. Owen, representing operator members of the C.M.A., explained his group employed 800 of the employees in the industry in this area and that he does not speak for operators of the other 400.

The agreement also provides for a 40-hour work week, with time-and-a-half rates for overtime work on Saturday mornings and double time for overtime work thereafter; maintenance of membership; preferential hiring for union members and a commitment by employers to recommend joining the union to new employees.

Russia Rejects British, U.S. Notes

LONDON (CP)—Russia has rejected British and United States representations on seizure of Austrian property for reparations, a high authority said today.

In a lengthy note handed the Austrian government, the Soviet occupation authorities in Austria were said to have made it plain there is no change in their recent position in regard to seizure of $22,000,000 worth of Austrian industrial plants and other property confiscated by the Germans following the Anschluss in 1938.

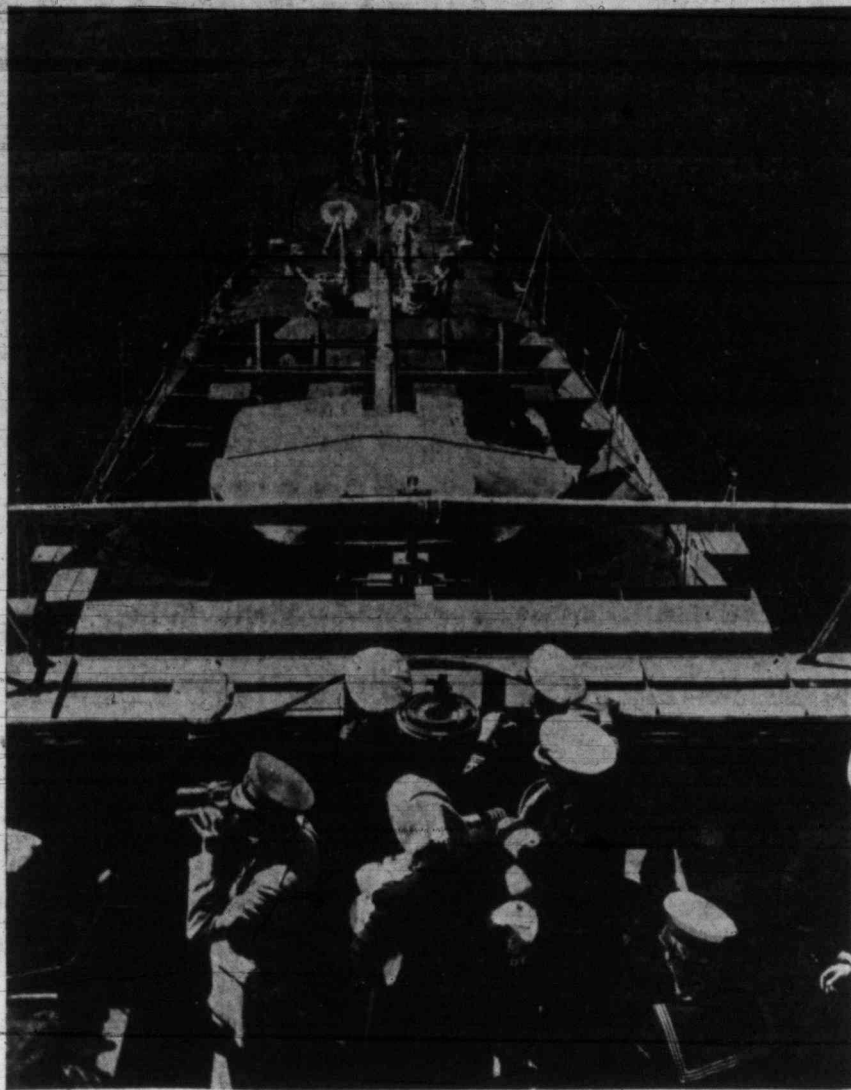

The text of the note was not available in London, but its essential points were known to authoritative sources, which said it disagreed with almost every point set forth in the British and U.S. representations.

Both Britain and the U.S. have asserted that property forcibly confiscated by the Germans after 1938 could not be classified as German under the Potsdam agreement.

$1,500,000 Hail Damage

REGINA (CP)—Hail storms during the past two weeks have caused about $1,500,000 potential loss in crops in Saskatchewan, an insurance agency spokesman estimated today. Claims for hail loss this year are nearly double the number filed in 1945, which was, however, a light year, he said.

Peacetime Crossing Symbolizes New Role

The eyes that looked at Alamein, Dunkerque and Burma saw the wonders of British Columbia's island passages for the first time as Governor-General Alexander watched from the bridge of H.M.C.S. Crescent during the crossing to Victoria from Vancouver, Wednesday. The famous veteran of action on three continents who planned the Nazi defeats in the African desert and in the mountain passes of Italy to avenge the retreats through the Burmese jungle and from the shores of France assumed a new role symbolized in this scene of peaceful waters when he became Canada's 17th Governor-General. To his right are Lady Alexander and Capt. Wallace B. Creery, commanding officer of the Royal Canadian Naval College, Royal Roads.

A-Bomb May Crack Coral Of Bikini

By HOWARD BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science
Writer

ABOARD THE U.S.S. APOLLO (AP)—The world's first under-water atomic bomb at Bikini July 25 will strike the coral atoll the most crushing blow in the earth's history, excepting only a few volcanic explosions.

The mechanism on which this gigantic blow is based is the speed of sound. In the air that speed is a mile in five seconds; in water a mile in little over one second, but in coral it is more than two miles a second.

The shock, or blast, travels in water and in coral at these same terrific speeds. This means that in a given time the crushing effect of shock goes nearly five times farther in water than in air. In coral the crushing goes 10 times farther.

This might mean catastrophe for Bikini Atoll if the entire energy of the bomb exploded under water goes into the water the same as the entire energy goes into the air from an air burst.

But not nearly all the atomic energy gets into the water at Bikini. The exact percentage is both a military secret and a matter of scientific controversy.

Premier King Goes To Paris Conference

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister King left the capital today for Halifax en route to the Paris Peace Conference.

He was accompanied by Norman Robertson, Under-secretary of State for External Affairs, and Arnold Heeney, clerk of the Privy Council. The other Canadian delegates are Hon. Dana Wilgress, Canadian ambassador to Russia, and Maj.-Gen. Georges Vanier, Canadian ambassador to France.

The liner, due to sail Saturday morning, will carry 1,000 high-priority civilian passengers to Britain, the largest number of civilians to embark at Halifax since the outbreak of war.

Wheat Pool Chiefs Gather In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Representatives of the Prairie Wheat Pools have gathered in Ottawa to hold discussions with Finance Minister-Isley in connection with the announcement in the budget that co-operatives will be taxed under certain conditions.

The wheat pool men include J. H. Wesson, head of the Western Wheat Pools; W. J. Parker of the Manitoba Wheat Pool and Benjamin Plummer of the Alberta Wheat Pool.

The pools claim the new taxation policy will cost them a great deal of money and they hope to obtain some relief from the government.

Also in the capital were George Mathieson, president of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, and George Melvor, chairman of the Canadian Wheat Board. They were understood to be completing details with other Government officials of the proposed new British-Canadian wheat agreement.

It is expected the agreement will be signed before the end of the present crop year, July 31. It is understood the agreement will be for four years with a fixed price of $1.55 a bushel basis No. 1 northern at the Head-of-the-Lakes for the first two years and no ceiling price for the second two years, but possibly a floor price.

Token Picket Line Around Province

VANCOUVER (CP)—A token picket line was thrown around the Vancouver Daily Province building again today as A.F.L. and C.C.L. unions continued their support of the striking International Typographical Union.

Officials of the newspaper reported press room employees had returned to work this morning.

The Province has been unable to publish since June 5, when the A.F.L. printers went out on strike in sympathy with striking printers at the Winnipeg Tribune.

Officers and members of the Typographical Union Local 226 are continuing to observe the injunction, granted in the B.C. Supreme Court earlier this week, restraining them from picketing the newspaper office.

Later the Stereotypers' and Electrotypers' Union officials announced their members had voted unanimously not to return to work so long as the Province management "continues to engage printers . . . other than members of the International Typographical Union."

The statement issued by union officials said: "Inasmuch as some of our members have more than 40 years' service with the company, we feel deeply grieved in having to make such a decision, as we have no personal grievance with the Daily Province."

OUR PROTESTANT DECLARATION!

The action of the Victoria City Council in referring the forthcoming Roman Catholic Festival to be held in our City to the Protestant Ministers for comment, and the requests of many Non-Roman Christians for an expression from their Ministers seem to us to warrant the following statement:

We are of the opinion that although our disagreement with the Roman Catholic Church in some matters of Creed and Dogma is real and deep, nevertheless our belief in religious freedom for all requires of all consistency whenever and wherever that is challenged. But in our judgment, and in the light of our historic background we hold that as binding on Roman as well as Protestant communions.

It is apparent that our day is very sensitive to ecclesiastical domination on the one hand, and the hyper-critical attitude on the other; both appear to us to fall short in their bounden duty to the national and religious well-being of Canada.

We would take this moment to observe that as Christians worshipping and serving the One God, and as sharers in the great truth of our human redemption as revealed in His Son, all Christian communions have common ground on which to make their united testimony. Therefore, we could hope for the time when the Roman Catholic Church will deem it not unseemly to unite in fraternal spirit with other Christians, especially in those common observances of loyalty which present themselves publicly from time to time.

While we love civil and religious liberty, and refuse to be intolerant, the Roman Church informs us that she would deny freedom to other religious bodies, as she has done in lands where she has held sway. We regret to find this is clearly stated in her authoritative utterance, and fully endorsed by the Roman Church in Canada—"It is necessary, even in the present day, that the Catholic religion shall be held as the only religion of the State, to the exclusion of all other forms of worship." (Syllabus, Pope Pius IX, Art. 77.)

If the Roman Church were willing to be a church among other churches, and to share in a common freedom for all, we, as Protestant ministers, could feel more at ease. But we know her exclusiveness would deny us the liberties we have so long and so freely accorded her.

While we regard the pending Roman Catholic public demonstrations as most inappropriate in Victoria, it is for the City Council's advisors to decide, if necessary, their legality.

Gasperi Says Italian Republic May Fall If It Loses Trieste

ROME (AP)—Premier Alcide de Gasperi said today he feared the new Italian republic would fall if Trieste were internationalized as recommended by the Big Four Foreign Ministers' Council.

The premier described the compromise as a "solution" which satisfied neither Italy nor Yugoslavia, and said Italy was pinning her hopes on the forthcoming Paris Peace Conference to veto the internationalization proposal.

A dispatch from Belgrade quoted Vice-Premier Edvard Kardelj as telling the Yugoslav parliament his government "cannot and will not agree to the Paris settlement of the Trieste question." The important Adriatic port is claimed by both Italy and Yugoslavia.

Premier de Gasperi claimed Italians were very disappointed with "American promise" which caused Italy to wage war on the side of the Allies.

"When the Americans entered Italy, we were told that if we fought beside you that this and that and the other thing would be considered in the final peace treaties," he said. "Instead, what? We lose Trieste, an Italian city."

The premier also described changes in the Italian-French border, approved by the four-power ministers, as "a humiliation."

He said he recently had proposed to the French government that the Moncenisio area awarded to France, be turned into a joint pool of hydro-electric power for both France and Italy but that the French had replied the suggestion came "too late."

"Italians understand that, having once been enemies, some punishment will be forthcoming," he said. "We have accepted the loss of our colonies, fleet and reparations. But the minor change in frontier is not a just punishment. It is merely a humiliation."

Coldwell Charges Government Policy Has Cut Farm Output

OTTAWA (CP)—M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, says government policies have restricted agricultural production in Canada.

Third speaker in a series of political talks by all parties over the Trans-Canada network of the CBC, Mr. Coldwell Wednesday night dealt with the general program of his party and provisions of the recent budget.

Previous speakers were Prime Minister King and John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader.

Discussing the world need for food, Mr. Coldwell said failure of the government to guarantee farmers adequate stabilized prices and to organize food processing and packing facilities had hampered food production. Many farmers who had strained to attain top production in wartime now had reduced their output.

"Farm life has not been made sufficiently attractive to bring back younger people to the farms," he said. "The taxation of farm family income has discouraged many of the producers. The budget has failed to recognize that the family of the farmer should be entitled to remuneration and that this remuneration should be deductible from the head of the family's income as a legitimate expenditure."

Mr. Coldwell was critical of budget provisions on the taxation of co-operatives requiring them to set aside 3 per cent interest on the capital employed.

"This is a principle which strikes at the very root of non-profit-making co-operative associations," he said.

Compulsion on co-operatives to give patronage dividends to non-members was "an attempt to undermine the self-help feature of the movement," he said.

U.S. Will Sell Silver At 90.5c

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Abe Murdock (Dem.-Utah) disclosed a House-Representatives-Senate conference committee had agreed on a 90.5 cents an ounce price for Treasury sales of silver.

However, he reported the conference had not yet reached an understanding on the duration of such a price.

The Treasury has not been permitted to sell silver since Dec. 31, 1945, when a previous silver bill expired. That bill carried a rate of 71.1 cents an ounce.

M.P. Wants Chief Of Prices Board In Federal Cabinet

OTTAWA (CP)—Suggestion that Donald Gordon, chairman of the Prices Board, be brought into the federal cabinet and be answerable directly to parliament was advanced in the Commons Wednesday by Lawrence Skey, P.C., Toronto-Trinity.

Speaking during continued debate on the budget, Mr. Skey said it was known Finance Minister Lsley was over-burdened and that he needed a rest.

"I recommend to the Minister of Finance that his colleague, the chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, be brought into the cabinet and the House of Commons, where he can bear the load of questioning, accept a share of government responsibility, and take that measure of load from the shoulders of the Minister of Finance," said Mr. Skey.

"I believe this would relieve the Minister of many onerous responsibilities, he now carries, and would also place the chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board in a cabinet position where members who, on occasions, had reason to complain that they didn't get all the information they wanted, would be able to question him directly."

Dealing with the tax reductions forecast in the budget, Mr. Skey said workers were being taxed so heavily they were striking to obtain more money. Such a situation was hardly conducive to peak production called for by Mr. Lsley.

Cochran Too Ill To See Premiere Of 'Big Ben'

LONDON (Reuter)—Charles B. Cochran, 73-year-old British theatrical producer, was to ill Wednesday night to witness one of his greatest triumphs, the London premiere of his musical, "Big Ben," attended by Prime Minister Attlee and other members of the government and the most brilliant first-night audience London has seen since before the war.

Princess Elizabeth and the Duchess of Kent also were there to applaud the wit of Sir Alan Herbert (A. P. Herbert), author of the book and lyrics and Independent member of Parliament for Oxford, in the musical satire on contemporary England.

But in the front row of the orchestra, there were two empty seats, reserved for Mr. and Mrs. Cochran, who never before had missed a Cochran first night.

Earlier, the veteran showman had suffered a hemorrhage, the second he has had recently. His doctors forbade him to attend the premiere. The triumph was a comeback for the veteran impresario, who in palmer days had seven shows running simultaneously in London and four in New York.

Request For Weather Station On Arctic Island Turned Down

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government has turned down as "too expensive" a request by the United States that Canada establish a meteorological station on Melville Island, on the western side of the Arctic archipelago.

It was learned today, and has also declined to give the U.S. permission to erect it because of sovereignty rights involved.

Reconstruction Minister Howe, in charge of the weather reports service, declined to comment, saying it was a matter for the External Affairs Department, and a spokesman for External Affairs also declined to comment.

According to unofficial reports, the Americans on the United States-Canadian Joint Defence Board, took the view that a weather station on Melville Island would be a great help in its plans to develop the defenses of the Arctic. Officials here, however, stressed the great difficulty of building a weather station in so isolated a location.

Melville is one of the Parry Islands on the 75th meridian north of Viscount Melville Straits and departmental officials here say that some summers a supply vessel would have trouble reaching it. Weather stations have become extensive and expensive operations, they say, and Canada is not prepared to embark on this one.

According to the reports, U.S. officials had equipment ready to ship on the flotilla which left Boston for the north early in July, but the Dominion government has been extremely cautious of its sovereignty rights in the north, and the equipment had to be left behind.

Co-operative Tax Hitting Wheat Pool

CALGARY (CP)—The Federal Government's new taxation policy in regard to co-operative organizations, as outlined in the recent budget presented by Hon. J. L. Lsley, Minister of Finance, will cost the Alberta Wheat Pool between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000.

The government's action has also dealt the worst blow ever experienced by the co-operative movement in Canada.

This statement was made Wednesday by R. D. Purdy, general manager of the Wheat Pool, in commenting on the government's recent decision to tax co-operatives under certain conditions.

ECONOMIC REALISM AT LAST

ONE OF THE PRINCIPAL ARGUMENTS advanced by President Truman and his advisers in support of the loan to Great Britain was that this form of financial assistance would help to expand world trade by gradually removing artificial obstacles to the free exchange of commodities between nation and nation. Any formula with this as its basic objective, therefore, would automatically serve the cause of better international understanding and speed the arrival at the goal set by the Charter of the United Nations—an enduring peace, full employment, and universal prosperity.

Nor need the skeptical smirks of the Jeremiahs in this and other countries be taken too seriously. It is in the nature of their tribe to warn against an economic or any fancy form of Utopia. None, of course, is sought. But even the disciples of the antiquated philosophy of national self-sufficiency are, at long last, beginning to accept the evidence that tariff wars can produce costly and devastating physical conflict. The school of thought in the United States and British countries, for example, which sought to convince the public that the so-called prosperity of the late 'twenties could be pegged behind fiscal barriers as high as Haman's gallows has learned its lesson at an awful price. For just as the Smoot-Hawley "brick" which our neighbor added to her tariff wall in 1930 effectively closed the American market to numerous products of many nations, so did the retaliatory preferences negotiated by British Empire statesmen at the Ottawa Economic Conference in 1932 further contract the global trading area. The economic lessons of the First Great War had not sufficiently impressed governments or peoples by their consequences. Six years of another conflict, with an impoverished world seriously wondering what the future has in store for it, surely has driven home the argument that international business of the most progressive type must be developed as a bulwark against another war on whose consequences, in the light of recent scientific discoveries, most people are too frightened to speculate.

For the foregoing and other manifold reasons, therefore, it is gratifying to learn that the United States, having paved the way by her loan of $3,750,000,000 to Great Britain, is about to re-examine her tariff schedules with the object of discovering how the customs duties on numerous items may be lowered in the interests of freer exchange of commodities. While such modifications naturally will be contingent upon reciprocal concessions by other trading nations—dependent likewise upon the decisions of the forthcoming 16-power meeting designed to study trade barriers, quotas, preferences and subsidies—this lead by the wealthiest country in the world should facilitate international economic recovery and bring new hope to war-weary millions everywhere.

JUDGED BY HIS COUNTRYMEN

WHATEVER THE INDIVIDUAL ON THIS continent may think of the execution of Gen. Draja Mihailovic with others of his Chetnik organization yesterday, those outside the boundaries of the country where he was tried and convicted will agree that the question of his guilt was one for settlement by the Yugoslavs themselves. The method of trial, the apparent preconception of the verdict, may seem strange to our understanding of formal justice, but the hearings, nevertheless, was conducted in conformity with the laws of a sovereign state. The unbiased will agree with the position announced by Britain's Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin that, having communicated with Yugoslav authorities, outsiders had no further right to intervene.

Mihailovic is recalled as the man who first led his country's armed opposition to the Nazis. As an enemy of Hitler he automatically became an ally of those aligned against Germany. As the war progressed, the western leaders, for reasons that must have been cogent, withdrew their support from the Chetnik head in favor of Marshal Tito. The decline of Mihailovic's prestige, however, will not alter the appreciation held for his organization which helped Allied armies to safety when they were forced down in alien territory. The contradictions in the reports of his alleged later dealings with the enemy, moreover, serve to throw light on the difficulties which must have been his in a guerrilla war, where subterfuge might be mistaken for purpose and where expediency might mislead observers unaware of the causes which led to apparent actions.

Many may wish that the verdict against the bearded figure, deserted save for a handful of men when he was finally captured, might have been other than it was. Nor will they see in his execution justification for Tito's statement that in his reaction stood condemned. All will admit, however, that if he was to face trial it was proper that his judges should be his countrymen, who, no doubt, were better informed on the issues in question than observers remote from the scene.

ACCORDING TO PATTERN

REGARDLESS OF WHAT RUSSIA HAS taken or thinks she is entitled to take from Austria, the British commander-in-chief in that former Axis-dominated country, acting on instructions from the government of the United Kingdom, has written to his Soviet opposite number questioning Moscow's interpretation of "German assets" in Austria. He points out to the Russian commander that an agreement on the interpretation of the term should be obtained between the four occupying powers before the Kremlin gives effect to the order confiscating all German property in East Austria. Pending such an arrangement, moreover, the British commander has requested that there be no unilateral Soviet action.

Explaining its attitude, the British government takes the position that the status of German property in Austria available for reparations is governed by, firstly, the Allied Declaration of January, 1943, pronouncing invalid any transfers of property in territories occupied or controlled by Nazi military or political forces; secondly, that the Moscow Declaration on Austria of November, 1943, denouncing the German annexation—which dated from March 15, 1938, when the Wehrmacht marched in to effect the Anschluss—as null and void and accepting no changes effected in Austria since that date. Meanwhile, President Truman has sent a message to the Austrian Chancellor announcing that the Washington government intends to enter into negotiations with the other Allies and the Vienna regime, with a view to the renunciation of the American share of German assets in Austria, and that pending the issue of such negotiations, the United States will make over such assets to the Austrian ministry as trustees for use immediately in reconstruction.

Russia's general policy, whether it be political, economic or military, seems to be to follow the line which will net the Soviet Union the maximum in immediate and long-term advantage without regard to former commitments or agreements. The case of Austria, of course, differs from that of the other "satellite" nations. She was bedeviled by internal political machinations for three or four years before Hitler's emissaries and undercover workers prepared the way for invasion in the March of 1938. She became a part of the Greater Reich without either the consent or connivance of large numbers of her population. And Russia's action in purloining the greater part of her industrial machinery for reparations—calling it German—is naturally offensive to both Britain and the United States.

AN IMPORTANT VERDICT

PROVIDED THEY HAVE BEEN informed of the results of his trial, the acquittal by a United States court of Russian Lieut. Nicolai G. Redin, former Soviet purchasing commission representative charged with buying secret information on the U.S.S. Yellowstone, should exert a valuable influence on the minds of citizens of the U.S.S.R. The indictment against Redin was grave in the extreme. His trial, furthermore, was conducted at a time when public opinion was disturbed over espionage issues. Yet, in the logical and honest processes of democratic justice, the 30-year-old Russian gained his freedom after the evidence had been weighed by the jury and found inadequate to convict him.

Redin's case, of course, differed materially from hearings in Canada in which citizens of this Dominion have been tried for misdemeanors—not against a foreign power but against the Canadian state itself. It will be the hope of those who seek a greater measure of understanding between the Soviet Union and the western democracies that the Redin verdict will be brought to the attention of his fellow countrymen by the authorities in Moscow. It could serve an exceedingly valuable purpose in discounting the suggestion that tension between Russia and the United States precludes just and logical assessment of international incidents, or that a citizen of the U.S.S.R. is in a prejudiced position when his actions come under official scrutiny by an outside power. To fair-minded people in any country, the verdict should help to increase the prestige of the courts in democratic nations.

AN EXCELLENT SERVICE

RELATIVELY FEW WESTERN Canadians know Mr. R. H. K. Maret, although much of the information which they have read on matters concerning the United Kingdom in recent years has been directed by him to the avenues by which it has reached the reading public of this Dominion. Until his recent transfer to New York, Mr. Maret was in charge of the United Kingdom Information Office in Ottawa where he worked untiringly and unostentatiously to furnish data to Canadian newspapers on affairs of the moment as they were seen in London.

The material which he relayed to the press of this country was largely of a factual nature. It did, on occasions, express the British Government point of view, and quite properly so. Moreover, the service placed no compulsion on those who received its releases to publish them. As well-composed outlines on important matters, they were valuable assets to newspapers and the work which Mr. Maret put into them is deeply appreciated. It is fitting, on his departure, to thank him for an excellent job well done, to wish him success in his new field, and to express the hope that the fine contacts he developed in this country will prosper under his successor, Mr. G. G. Vincent, who takes up his duties after service with the wartime Ministry of Information in London.

Knowledge makes peace. The ignorant are suspicious and belligerent.

M. MOLOTOV'S ADDRESS TO THE GERMAN NATION

IN HIS opening statement on Germany M. Molotov was not addressing himself to Mr. Bevin and Mr. Byrnes. He was talking over their heads to the Germans, intending to have the Germans understand what he meant while the British and the Americans couldn't and probably wouldn't believe it. This opening gambit was shrewdly and cunningly contrived, and it was immediately successful: He put Russia forward as the champion and protector of German nationalism against the western powers, and then—in order to give that idea time to work its effect in Germany—insisted on suspending negotiations.

Mr. Bevin and Mr. Byrnes were unprepared to deal with this bold manoeuvre.

THE GRAND PURPOSE of M. Molotov's statement is to shape the future of Europe: In what it affirms and in what it rejects, in what it says and in what it leaves unsaid, it is carefully designed to bring about the exclusion of the British, French, and Americans from effective influence in the eventual German settlement, and to prepare the way for another Russo-German alliance. I know how serious a charge this is. The proof is complex and cumulative. But we may begin in this first article with one crucial point on which I submit no other interpretation is possible. How can Russia, and why does Russia, denounce the western powers as wishing to "dismember" Germany when it is Russia which has annexed for herself and for Poland the large German territory east of the Oder and the Neisse Rivers? "It has of late," said M. Molotov, "become fashionable to talk about dismemberment of Germany into several 'autonomous' states; about federalization of Germany and about the separation of the Ruhr from Germany. . . . Naturally, if as a result of a plebiscite throughout Germany (sic) the German people express their wish to transform Germany into a federal state, or if as a result of a plebiscite in various former German states a desire will be manifested to break away from Germany, it goes without saying that there cannot be any objection on our part."

THUS M. MOLOTOV is against what he calls "dismemberment," unless the Germans vote for it, though Russia and Poland have already dismembered eastern Germany, and he is favorable to a unified and centralized Reich. What can be the meaning of this extraordinary paradox where M. Molotov, who has dismembered the Reich comes forward as the great champion of German unity and the great protector of Germany against annexation and against federalism? The answer to this conundrum is not that M. Molotov is hypocritically trying to deceive the Germans. The German nationalist elements will understand him. For the Germans this statement will mark a tacit understanding about the future: That at an appropriate time, if the Germans play their part properly, Russia will abandon Poland, and will once again join with Germany in a partition of Poland.

THAT is the tacit understanding, fore-shadowed for some considerable time in German Communist tactics, which has enabled the German Communists to proclaim themselves the true party of the German unity, and not be made ridiculous because they cannot protest publicly against the dismemberment of eastern Germany. The Germans, who have good memories, will not have forgotten that after the First World War, when Russia was ostracized and Germany was prostrate, they got the Rapallo Treaty, and that after the Second World War they are being addressed by one of the authors of the Molotov-Ribbentrop pact.

That the Germans are listening, and that they will understand, there can be no doubt. The western Allies, who have talked more than they have thought about German unity, can never give the Germans the unity the Germans really want. For the western Allies can never restore the lost provinces of eastern Germany. But Russia can restore them, and that is why M. Molotov is able to outtalk Mr. Bevin and Mr. Byrnes on the subject of German unity. Russia can restore German unity by the simple expedient of doing once more what has been done four times before: By joining with Germany to partition Poland.

THE MORE TROUBLE there is in Poland, the nearer the day when the Russians decide that an independent Poland is unmanageable, and that an alliance with Germany based on the partition of Poland is once again, as it was for so long in the past, their best and easiest policy. That this day may not be so far distant is plainly indicated by the whole substance and tenor of M. Molotov's statement. For he would never have turned so sharply in favor of Germany against France if he were not getting ready also to turn in favor of Germany against Poland.

That this would be the line of Russian policy was, it seemed to me, most probable even four months ago when I was in Germany. LET US HOPE that Mr. Bevin and Mr. Byrnes will be alerted before it is altogether too late; and that they will remember what happened in 1939 to Mr. Chamberlain and M. Daladier behind their backs when they were negotiating with M. Molotov on the same fundamental problem—the relations between Germany and Russia. For though the outward circumstances are different today, the essentials and ultimates of the question are the same. The Russians know it. The Germans know it. There is no doubt that the French know it. But it is an open question—though on it hangs the future of Europe—whether Mr. Bevin and Mr. Byrnes know it.

BOATMAN'S CODE

I have just finished reading with great care the harrowing experiences of three men and a boy who narrowly escaped the fate of so many small craft operators in our local waters, the only difference in this case being the hand of Providence guiding them through.

It mentions the lack of attention paid their distressed craft by passing vessels, and the inability of aircraft to spot them. Mr. Hutchison, one of the group on the small boat, mentions to the Times reporter, and I quote: "I think it should be brought to people's attention that when they do see people out in

GLOBAL SURVEY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg in his report to the Senate on the Paris party of the Big Four Foreign Ministers, at which he acted as an adviser to State Secretary Byrnes of the United States, declared the great trouble between eastern communism and western democracy "is mutual distrust and suspicion which the 'iron curtain' between us, and which the insatiable Soviet appetite for proselytizing and propaganda, do not help dispel."

That puts the existing threat to peace on a thumb-nail. The Senator points out that "these things must be dispelled, not in pretence but in fact, if we are to get on with the vital business of peace on earth." Particularly there must be dispelled any suspicion that the West is trying to organize the world against the Soviets, and that the Soviets are trying to organize the world against our Western civilization.

How then are these suspicions to be dissipated? That's a difficult problem and especially since, as Senator Vandenberg reminds us, eastern communism and western democracy "differ in ideas, ideals and ideologies."

If recriminations not only won't solve the difficulty, but make it worse—what then? One wonders whether there may be an idea for a pact of amity among the Allies in the procedure followed when the United States finally recognized the Soviet Union in 1933 and diplomatic relations were established. At that time Moscow was asked to give several guarantees, among which was this:

"The Soviet government pledges itself to refrain from the dissemination of propaganda against the political or social order of the United States, or attempting in any way to overthrow American institutions, and to restrain any agency under direct or indirect Soviet control from interfering with the internal affairs of this country."

If such a guarantee against "proselytizing and propaganda" was sounded in 1933—and this may be debatable in view of subsequent developments—it conceivably might form the basis now for a reciprocal treaty among the powers.

a boat-waving at them like that, they should investigate."

After thinking the matter over pretty thoroughly, I have come to the conclusion that there is a weak link there. Many people out in boats wave at passers-by just out of sheer friendliness, and as an observer of these practices, I myself would find it very difficult to distinguish a distress call from a friendly hail. A more positive signal is required; something that is easily recognized and can leave no doubt in anybody's mind what it attempts to convey. For that reason, I should like to make a few suggestions for the protection of our citizens who travel in small boats.

(a) The provincial government should make it compulsory for all boats to carry a distress signal flag of suitable color and size to be easily recognized when observed from a distance, and to apply to all water craft of any size or description.

(b) That a pair of oars must be carried at all times.

(c) In rowboats, the oars must be attached by chains to the oar locks.

(d) A passenger-carrying scale be worked out to prevent overloading.

If suitable legislation were enacted along these lines with adequate patrol to enforce the measure, and proper punishment meted out to all offenders, I think we would observe a rapid falling off of water fatalities.

Have the Shoes Men Have Been Waiting For

Cecil Solly Says:

WHEN BEETS are young, you eat the entire plant, tops and root. Non-gardening friends will rave about this delicious dish, which those who buy their vegetables in markets can never know.

By sowing a four-week supply every four weeks, you can enjoy young beets all summer long. There is seldom trouble in growing them, but if you grow too slowly, and have too much red and yellow coloring in their leaves, it is due to soil that is too acid. A little lime spread along the row and washed in will correct this.

Seeds should be sown an inch apart, covered half an inch, and the soil pressed well above them. The tops are at their best when about six inches tall; later they become stringy. For an early harvest, seed is sometimes sown indoors and plants set out in the garden when six weeks old. They will stand light frosts.

CLUSTER OF SEED

Each beet seed is really a cluster of seed and where it is sown several plants will usually grow. For the quickest development of the roots, these should be thinned out promptly—but if the tops are to be eaten, thinning may be delayed until the plants are six inches tall; when the leaves are at their best.

Beets left to mature should stand four inches apart. While of highest quality when young, not much larger than a golf ball, older roots retain their sweetness and are excellent for beet soup and pickles.

Beets can be sown as soon as the ground has been prepared. Germination may take eight to 10 days, and may be delayed by dry weather, as the seeds require more moisture than some to get them started. The government standard germination percentage is 65 and the good seed does not often exceed that.

Beet tops are among the richest vegetables in vitamin A, and also have a good portion of vitamins B and C. The roots have vitamin B in fair amount, with a little vitamin C. There are many excellent varieties, some maturing in 55 days from the time seeds are sown, others taking as long as 80 days. For table quality of both tops and roots, several sowings of an early variety are recommended.

VEGETABLE STORAGE

It is important to know just how the crops of vegetables you have grown are to be kept, so that they may form part of the daily diet over as long a period as possible.

There are four places where vegetables may be kept until used. They are all equally important: 1. Garden; 2. root cellar; 3. frozen locker; 4. glass jars. Every vegetable that may be kept out in the open garden until used, should come under group one. This saves work as well as containers.

Greens—Since, by careful planning, one may have good choice of garden-fresh greens any day of the year, the plan should be worked out so that there are always several leaf vegetables available. Save the glass jars in which beet tops and spinach might be canned for other more perishable vegetables.

Roots—Beets, carrots, onions, root parsley and many other root vegetables may easily be stored in the root cellar.

Locker-freezing is the best way to store peas and many other vegetables. There is no need for glass jars for these, since paper cartons are used.

Glass Jars will be needed for fruits this year. Everyone will plan to put up many more quarts of fruit at home.

Take inventory of all the glass jars, quarts, pints and jelly glasses. See that you have enough shelf room for them all. Most of them will be needed for the canned fruit, so make a list of what you expect to put up and avoid putting any vegetables into glass jars if there is any other place where they may be kept until needed for the table.

One expert says, garden crops which are eaten raw should not be harvested more than 10 minutes before using; others not more than half an hour. Try to come as near to this as possible.

The DOCTOR Says:

WISE VACATIONERS IMPROVE BODY AND MIND

By WILLIAM A. O'BRIEN, M.D.

Every vacationer should return to his job in better physical and mental condition than when he left it. But too often vacations are spoiled due to excessive indulgence in outdoor activities by those who normally lead sedentary lives.

Personal directors insist that a vacation is a time for preparation for the job ahead, and not a reward for past service.

It is wise to take a vacation every year unless you can get away from your work every day for a definite period of time. Men who retire after years of active service without ever having taken a vacation may have a great deal, for everyone needs to get away from his problems for a while so that he may return and attack them with renewed vigor.

The shorter working week, too, provides well-adjusted persons with an opportunity to come back after the two-day rest period with increased enthusiasm for their work. As the morning is the best part of the day in which to get work done, so the first part of the week is the most productive.

UTILIZE CHILD CENTRE

The busy mother who finds it impossible to take a vacation away from her family should utilize the organized community activities provided for child care and recreation. It is unfortunate that so-called good neighborhoods in our cities often do not have playgrounds for their children, as have the more congested districts.

Father and mother should have an outing for themselves from time to time, away from the children.

It takes time for a heart to pick up its slack and adjust itself to heavy physical exertion. Persons with normal hearts on a vacation may indulge in strenuous sports if they are in good physical condition, but those with weakened hearts often develop heart failure from the same activities.

Over-eating and drinking, loss of sleep and excessive exposure to sun and heat also may cause illness.

RISE EARLY, REST LATER

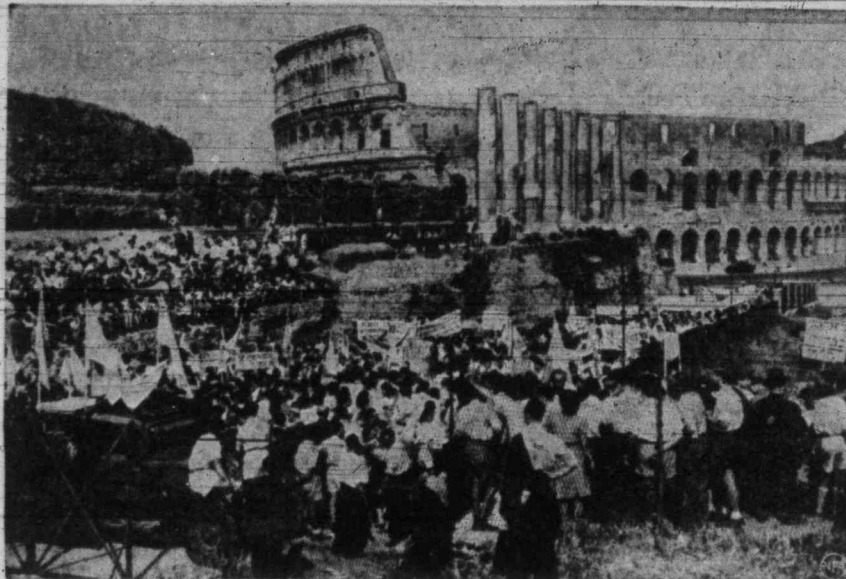

Change your daily schedule while on vacation. Early rising will allow you to enjoy the beauties of the morning, and you may rest later, during the heat of the day.

Moderation is the best rule on vacations.

The office-worker profits most from getting out into the open, spending his idle hours on the beach and indulging in a certain amount of physical activity. The heavy worker gets the most benefits from taking it easy and catching up on his reading and sleep.

Illness results from consuming infected foods in the summertime, for bacteria tend to

Three hundred Shriners of the Ararat Temple, Kansas City, Missouri, arrived in Victoria yesterday for a short visit and left again at 4.30 in the afternoon for Seattle on their way to the Shriners' Imperial Conference in San Francisco July 22, 23 and 24. Three hundred more will arrive in the city Thursday for a similar visit.

With the group arriving here were Parry Barnes, Potentate of the Ararat Temple, to which President Truman belongs; F. S. To Make Debut With Victoria Friends

Arriving in Victoria today to share in the excitement attendant on the Government House ball were, left to right, Misses Barbara Effinger, Polly Lane and Rosemary Jukes, who are among 27 Vancouver debutantes to be presented this evening. Together with the other girls from the mainland, they are guests at the Empress Hotel, where many parties are being held in their honor.

Victoria Debutantes Choose Picture Gowns For Tonight's State Ball

Gaiety and excitement reign in Victoria tonight as 63 debut-antes from the Capital City and Vancouver prepare to make their formal bow to society at the state ball at Government House.

Younger daughter of the host and hostess, Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. W. C. Woodward, Miss Mary Twigg Woodward, has chosen for her debut a picture gown of diaphanous white nylon, the off-the-shoulder decolletage outlined with tiny ruffles. Rows of tiny shell pink flowers separate the ruffles forming a cascade on the very bouffant skirt, and the young guest of honor will carry a colonial bouquet.

Pioneer families of Victoria will be represented in the persons of Miss Jane Macintosh, a granddaughter of the late Sir Richard McBride, one of the early premiers of this province;
and of Miss Pamela Fraser and Miss Hilary Castle, granddaughters of the late Dr. R. L. Fraser, one of the city's early physicians.
The glossy green leaves of the sheaf of gardenias to be carried by Miss Macintosh will form a clever contrast to her gown of white net. Flat folds of net form the fitted bodice, extending into phantom sleeves, and the narrow sash of white velvet ribbon accents the full crinoline skirt.

Bands of lace insertion on the tiny puff sleeves and from the fitted waist to the hip line feature the full-skirted gown of white net over tulle to be worn by Miss Fraser.

Miss Castle's gown will be of white chiffon, the crystal-beaded bodice fashioned with high round neckline and the full skirt rippling in soft folds to the floor.
She will carry gardenias, roses and stephanotis in a round bou-quet.

The debutante list includes three duos of Victoria sisters:
the Misses Merston, Misses Griffith and the Misses Robertson.
Miss Pamela Merston will be gowned in Swiss eyelet embrodery with a deep ruche around the hemline and the off-the-shoulder neckline ruffled with organza. She will carry a sheaf of pink, white and blue cornflowers, while her sister Ann, wearing a classic gown of white haircord sheer with corded shoulder straps and gracefully flared skirt, will have a shoulder bouquet of gardenias.

Colonial bouquets in rainbow colors, popular floral choice of many of the debutantes, will be carried by brunette Ann Robertson and her fair-haired sister, Mary. The former's gown of white lace features a dropped shoulder yoke with tiny straps and a fisheye effect, the gathered skirt showing a great fullness.
Soft folds of lace skillfully cut into cap sleeves and a sweetheart neckline fashion the long, pointed bodice of Miss Mary Robertson's gown, giving way to a full net skirt.

A gown of white silk embrodered poplin, the full skirt gathered to a set-in waistband and cap sleeves finishing the low, square neckline, will be worn by Miss Joan Griffith, a round bouquet of red rosebuds and sweet peas completing her ensemble. Miss Gwynneth Griffith will be frocked in white sharkskin patterned with red roses, fashioned with off-the-shoulder neckline and full skirt bellied out from a low waistline.

LACE AND SATIN
A wide collar of real lace in shawl effect over the shoulders will give an old-world look to the gown of white satin, choice of Miss Elizabeth Cowley. Silver diamonds will sparkle on the layers of net overskirt and she will carry pink roses and lily of the valley in colonial arrangement. Miss Helen Robinson will wear a full-skirted gown of white net with pleated bodice of white satin and (drop shoulders.
Her semi-colonial bouquet will be of cornflowers, sweetheart roses and swainsons.

Granddaughter of the late Hon.
James Dunsmuir, former Lieutenant-Governor and Premier of British Columbia, Miss Judy
Humphreys will attend the affair wearing a doll-waisted gown of heavy white lace, the low neckline ruffled around the shoulders. She will carry gardenias and red roses in a loose bouquet.

Miss Elspeth Ker has chosen a pale-dusty pink tulle gown with a tiny rippling pleatum at the dropped waistline. An off-the-shoulder neckline and two shades of dusty pink velvet roses decorate the fitted bodice and she will carry an arm bouquet of tiny pink rosebuds, gardenias and swainsona. Her only ornament will be a three-strand necklace of pale pink pearls.

White tulle with a white net overdress will be worn by Miss Joan Ginnason. Her dress is styled with fitted bodice and full bouffant skirt and she will carry a colonial bouquet of sweetheart roses and beauty carnations.
Lace mitts and a colonial arrangement of tiny flowers in her hair will complete the effect.

Miss Janet Denniston is wearing white satin with sweetheart neckline, cape sleeves and graceful crinoline skirt. Her bouquet is of red roses, gardenias and swainsona.

EMBROIDERED GOWNS

All white embroidered Swiss crepe fashioned on long fitted lines with tiny scalloped edges on the off-the-shoulder neckline and around the phantom sleeves will be worn by Miss Marjorie Wride.
Miss Peggy Godfrey, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. V. S. Godfrey will be in crisp white Swiss eyelet embroidered organza, simply styled with tiny fitted bodice and full rippling skirt. Her bouquet will be gardenias, swainsons and stephanotis.

An unusual arrangement of tiny lace ruffles outlines the fine net yoke of the white lace and net frock Miss Joan Edgar wears tonight and extends to form an off-the-shoulder effect. Tiny buttons march down the back of the long-fitted bodice and tulle ruffles over the hips fall into a full crinoline skirt. She will wear a single strand of pearls and carry a bouquet of pale pink roses, blue cornflowers, white carnations and gypsophelia.

Echoing the sparkle of this evening's light and laughter will be the iridescent pastel-shaded beads sprayed across the crinoline gown of white net to be worn by Miss Sage Ley. A pearl necklace at the formal neckline and a colonial of pale yellow carnations, mauve candytuft, pink rosebuds and gypsophelia will complete her costume.

FLOWER CONTRASTS

A small hand spray of red roses will provide a bright color contrast to Miss Kathleen Burt Smith's gown of heavy white satin. It is styled with rounded neckline, short puffed sleeves and extra fullness over the hip line.
Revers over the shoulders will form tiny sleeves for the fitted bodice of lace, accented by a very full skirt of net, in the gown chosen by Miss Gene McMin. Her bouquet will be all-white.

Miss Betty McMillan will wear a diamond necklace and tiara complimenting her gown of heavy ivory satin. A wide panel of the satin edged with net falls from the hip line into a full court train and Chantilly lace fashions the set-in yoke and ruffled neckline.
She will also carry a colonial bouquet.

A round bouquet of shasta daisies, pink roses and swainsons will be carried by Miss Ann Pat-low. Her graceful gown of white net over tulle features bands of satin with raised design at the low square neckline, around the skirt and drawing together the very puffed sleeves.

An Empire model of hand-made French lace, the bouffant skirt stiffened with mohair and flowers of the lace applique around the low decolletage, is being worn by Miss Betty Jones. Her bouquet will be a cascade of gardenias.

Miss Sylvia Crofton has arrived from her home in Ganges and has described her gown as being white sheer with a floral design of pink roses. A double ruffle of sheer rounds the low neckline of the fitted bodice and the pink rose design will be repeated in her bouquet.

A large bow of white tulle tying high on the front of the bodice and a full circular skirt highlight the white net and tulle dress chosen by Miss Patricia Henderson, daughter of Mr.
and Mrs. Harold W. G. Henderson. She will wear a necklace of pearls and carry a colonial bouquet. Miss Nancy Grant, will wear white net with full skirt and fitted bodice with a low neckline. She will carry a Victorian posy of pastel-colored summer flowers.

GARDENIA NECKLACE
A lei of gardenias accents the formal evening gown to be worn by Miss Doria deMellin with its sleeveless fitted bodice, low formal neckline and very full skirt.
Miss deMellin will also carry a round bouquet of gardenias and swainsons.

Miss Rosemary Bridgman's
gown is styled with a white lace bodice and bouffant skirt of net over satin. The low neckline is outlined with a tiny net ruching.
Her round bouquet will be of pastel shaded carnations.
A period frock in the Kate Greenway style with off-the-shoulder neckline, tiny bows accenting the front of the fitted bodice and panniers over the hips will be worn by Miss Betty Maitland-Young. A necklace of pearls and a semi-colonial style bouquet of sweetheart roses and bougardia centred with a gardenia will complete her ensemble.

Rehearse Routines In Ruined Church

LONDON (CP)—A blitzed church rang to the tap of dancing shoes and the thud of a not too tuneful piano.

Blond hair piled high, bare legs blue from cold, 24 little "Tiller Girls," in skimpy black practice pants and white blouses, rehearsed a dance number for a new musical show.

John Tiller chorus girls were famous before the war at Paris night spots like the Folies Bergeres, where the singing girls were French but the rows of long-legged, beautifully-trained precision dancers were usually "English misses" from the school across the Channel. Tiller girls went to the United States, toured the Riviera and danced in floor shows in South America. When war came, the troupe had to stay in Britain.

"We had girls playing right through the London blitz," said Miss Doris Alloway, kind-faced director of the school. "But we were very lucky."

A bomb fell on a theatre while one troupe of girls was dancing at Bristol. And of course we've had them here. But we never had a girl killed during the whole war."

When John Tiller began his famous dancing school in Manchester in 1890, he developed with his troupe of chorus girls a type of highly-trained team dancing never before seen on the stage but soon widely copied, especially in America.

But the Tiller girls were famous not only for their dancing, "Les girls Anglaises" as the French call them, had a reputation for virtue, and the strict discipline of Mr. and Mrs. Tiller left some of the Latin countries gasping.

This reputation became a commercial asset much prized still by the old staff members, now directing the school as a private limited company, according to John Tiller's wishes expressed before he died in 1925. The school is still being run in the same personal way as in the days when Mrs. Tiller helped the girls do their laundry and advised them on love affairs.

BABY'S HOT LITTLE HEAD MAY BE A DANGER SIGNAL

WHEN your baby's head feels hot to your hand you must do something. And do it quickly. Read what another mother does and what results she gets: "My baby's cheeks and hands were so hot. I was frightened. I gave him a Baby's Own Tablet at noon and by after supper he was all better."

And Mrs. Francis Carroll of Midland, has this to say: "My little girl was so feverish I was really alarmed. Then I thought of Baby's Own Tablets, so I gave her three every two hours and by night she was up and around."

Baby's Own Tablets are sweet-tasting, easy to take—and may be quickly crushed to a powder if desired. They help reduce the simple fever common to trivial sicknesses of babyhood by clearing harmful wastes out of the system. If fever is not relieved promptly, consult your physician. No "sleepy" stuff—no dulling effect. Specially good for constipation, teething troubles, upset stomach and other minor ailments of baby. Lined with cod liver oil. Mothers for over 40 years. Get a box today. Sickness so often strikes the night. 25 cents. Money back if you are not satisfied.

Women's Clubs Stress Food Conservation

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's "Save Food" program is being conducted from many different angles by Canadian women.

Women's organizations are making worthwhile contributions to the campaign by donating unused meat ration coupons, by stressing greater food conservation at teas and club meetings and by encouraging housewives to make personal sacrifices.

"I am firmly of the opinion that the way to conserve food is to do without it, not to substitute," said Mrs. Ursula Macdonell of Kingston, president of the Canadian Federation of University Women. "Many people eat too much anyway. They could well dispense with desserts."

Canadian farm women also are backing the "Save Food" campaign, increased production being a feature of their program rather than special conservation measures.

"We have no elaborate program of food conservation because conservation comes naturally to farm people," said Mrs. Cameron Dow, president of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada.

"We feel that we can accomplish far more by increasing production. We are planting more vegetables, organizing garden brigades, persuading youngsters to garden."

Members of the Women's Institutes also have pledged themselves to eat one slice of bread less each meal.

"Country people are bread eaters and across Canada that slice saved means a real saving," Mrs. Dow stressed.

At the National Council of Women's annual meeting at Niagara Falls all members expressed intention of doing their share in the conservation of food so that increased shipments could be sent overseas to famine areas.

Adult Education Recipe For Bliss

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—A recipe for married bliss was offered recently by psychology professor W. M. O'Neill of Sydney University.

He maintains that while mothers-in-law are a factor in breaking up marriages, the problem could be solved by special classes and study groups to give advice to mothers-in-law, and help them to adjust themselves to the relationship with their married sons and daughters. Nowadays, there are plenty of study groups in which it is possible to discuss problems of family and other relationships. The whole aim of adult education is to help people in their personal contacts.

"Like the stepmother, the mother-in-law has been made somewhat unfairly, the villain of the piece," said Prof. O'Neill. "The difficulties are not all her creation, although her attitude and activities seem to be the focal point of the conflict. A little more intelligent insight into the necessary 'give and take' of the relationship would go a long way to prevent trouble arising."

The professor added that classes and study groups on the handling of children had already been of great assistance to mothers. He believed that the same methods should prove equally helpful to mothers-in-law.

National Shortage Of Female Help

TORONTO (CP)—National employment officials in Toronto Wednesday reported 9,000 unfilled jobs for women on file while at the same time 172 women and girls are registered for jobs that cannot be found for them.

Investigating officials found that employers are demanding women instead of men; with the return of servicemen, many girl employees are marrying, while married women are leaving their jobs for household duties.

Greatest shortage of female help is in the textile industry, domestic work and stenographers.

French Princess Marries

PARIS (AP)—Princess Letitia Murat, daughter of the Princess Alexandre Murat, and Lieut. Charles Codman of Boston, were married Tuesday in the Chapel of the Invalides.

The Princess is a descendant of Prince Joachim Murat, who was a general in Napoleon's army, the husband of Napoleon's sister Caroline and later King of Naples.

HAPPY MARRIAGE CODE

Dear Miss Dix—I am a bride of a few weeks, anxious to make my marriage a success, so will you please answer these questions for me: Should I let my husband go out alone if he wishes to see his friends? Should I always ask him where he has been when he stays out late? How can I avoid nagging my husband and still not let him walk over me?

JUST A BRIDE

Answer—Certainly I think that every husband has the right to go out occasionally with his men friends, and that his wife is wise if she asks no questions and waits for him to tell her about it. There is no other way of keeping a husband home equal to leaving the door on the latch.

The way to avoid nagging is simplicity itself. Just don't do it. Make an ironbound rule and stick to it never to tell your husband a thing but once; never to remind him of his faults or any mistake he has made, and never to keep harping on an old grievance. Just forget it.

BE SOLICITOUS

Marriage is a series of concessions, and the best way you can secure your own happiness is by trying to make your husband happy. Put his pleasure and convenience before your own. Do everything you can to please him. Put an olive branch instead of a chip on your shoulder, and so shall you make the sort of peaceful home that a man likes to come back to in the evenings.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I have been married eight years, the most unhappy years of my life. My wife is an incorrigible malcontent. Nothing ever pleases or satisfies her. She has a fine home, servants, a car and all the spending money she wants, and she is always taking trips. Several months ago she went to visit friends in a distant city and she refuses to come home. Says if I want to be with her I can come and live there. I simply cannot break up my business to satisfy her foolish whims. What can I do?

A WORRIED MAN

Answer—Evidently you have done your best to make your wife satisfied and happy, and equally evident is the fact that she is one of the women that nothing will content. Therefore, there is no use in wasting any more effort in trying to please her, so do the best you can for yourself.

Any man is foolish who lets his wife ruin his life either by her extravagance or by her restlessness. Have enough backbone to tell her that unless she is willing to do her part that you are going to break up the partnership. You may be very sure that she will have more respect for you and care more for you if she sees that she cannot drag you around by the nose. No woman ever really loves the man she henpecks.

If you want her back, cut off her allowance and refuse to pay her bills unless she will come home and do her duty as a wife. The hand that holds the purse rules the roost.

Urge Outlet For Patients

LONDON (CP)—Patients are best equipped to sum up the qualities of their nurses and should have an opportunity to express their views, said an article in the medical journal Lancet.

"For most patients, most of the time, nursing does not mean the more technical feats of the sister," said the article. "It means having his bed properly made, having his pillows well-placed, hearing simple reassuring words at the right moment, being prepared for an operation."

Many girls were "born nurses," Lancet said, but their natural ability was destroyed during training "by hurry, careless criticism and emphasis on other and less important aspects of the work."

Official Ceremonies Start Viceregal Stay On Vancouver Island

Replying to Premier John Hart's address of welcome on behalf of British Columbia Governor Alexander said that Wednesday would always be an important day to himself and to his wife, Lady Alexander.

Speaking from the steps of the Legislative Buildings a few minutes after his arrival Governor-General Alexander in his uniform of field-marshal told several thousand Victorians massed on the lawns before him that visiting Victoria meant completion of his first trip across Canada.

"My wife and I," he said, "are happy to be able to spend some time in British Columbia with its marvellous scenery and climate."

Governor-General Alexander said that Canada's contribution in the second World War in the services, in industry and in agriculture would long be remembered.

In answer to Mayor Percy George's address of welcome he referred to the "glorious achievements" of Victorians in the Allied armies, adding that he had commanded many men from this city in the Mediterranean campaign.

Governor-General Alexander told the huge throng that no welcome on his cross-country trip had been warmer than that of Victoria.

Immediately after the ceremony of welcome the viceregal party went to the legislative chamber where Premier Hart presented members of the cabinet to Governor-General and Lady Alexander.

PUBLIC RECEPTION

Standing beside her husband for the public reception which followed, Lady Alexander wore a sapphire blue wool frock with fitted jacket and a half-hat of matching straw over her dark hair set in pageboy style. Black bow-trimmed pumps and white purse and gloves completed her ensemble.

In the hour-long reception before the throne dias Victorians of all ages filed through the legislative chamber to make their bows or to shake hands with His Majesty's representatives in Canada.

Included in the hundreds who met the viceregal couple were a number of visitors from south of the border. First to be presented by Capt. Wallace B. Creery, naval aide, were Mrs. Janet Oldaker and Mrs. R. Thistle, wearing the grey uniform of the Canadian Red Cross Corps. After them came Brig. J. Sutherland Brown.

Among the tourists who shook hands with the Alexanders were Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Schoenfeld of Oakland. Wearing riding clothes with bright sports shirts they took their place in the long line-up.

"I hope I didn't attract too much attention," said Mrs. Schoenfeld afterwards. "We came straight from riding and didn't want to miss the reception."

B.C.'s Welcome To Governor

Premier John Hart after reading British Columbia's official welcome to Governor-General Alexander yesterday presented the viceregal visitor with an illuminated copy. Text of an engraved address follows:

"On behalf of the people of British Columbia, I welcome you on your first official visit to this most western province of the Dominion of Canada.

"We greet you first with unbounded fealty as the representative of His Majesty, King George VI, and second with great admiration as a distinguished soldier upon whom rested such heavy responsibilities during perhaps the most perilous period in the history of the Empire.

"We received the announcement of your appointment as Governor-General with deep satisfaction, and feel that we have been honored in having such a brilliant and courageous military leader selected for so exalted a position.

"Many of our own gallant men and women served under your command both in North Africa and Italy. We are therefore not unmindful of the high regard and admiration in which you are held by our fellow Canadians who served with you during those campaigns. From them we have learned something of your fortitude in times of adversity; of your brilliance in matters of strategy; of your courage in the face of danger, and above all, of your kindly interest in the welfare of those under your command.

"These outstanding attributes have created a favorable impression in the minds of those who have looked forward with pleasant anticipation to greeting and welcoming His Majesty's representative.

"In extending to you a cordial

Premier John Hart extended British Columbia's official welcome to the viceregal visitors in a ceremony on the steps of the Legislative Buildings. Standing beside Lady Alexander is her lady-in-waiting Miss Bridget Vesey. Crowds massed on the lawns below listened as Premier Hart voiced the greeting of the province.

Wearing 10 rows of ribbons on his uniform of field marshal, Canada's 17th Governor-General, Viscount Alexander stepped from the Crescent to shake hands with provincial and civic dignitaries who waited at the dock with their wives. Here he meets Mrs. Percy George as Capt. Wallace B. Creery, naval aide, and Lady Alexander look on.

In a steady procession Victorians in all walks of life and of every age filed through the legislative chamber to be presented to Governor-General and Lady Alexander in the hour-long public reception which followed the welcome extended by Premier Hart. Here, 10-year-old David Moore shakes hands with the Governor-General as his mother, Mrs. C. R. Moore, 1505 Monterey Avenue, walks on after meeting Lady Alexander.

welcome to British Columbia we couple the name of your gracious consort.

"The people of this province are proud of its natural beauty and we sincerely trust that during your visit you will have an opportunity to enjoy the scenic wonders of our mountains, valleys, lakes and streams.

"We respectfully ask that you convey to His Majesty the King our assurance of allegiance and affection. We have many pleasant recollections of the visit of Your Majesty to Canada, and look forward to their return in the not too distant future."

Prairie Associations Hold Annual Picnics

The Alberta Society and Saskatchewan Association held their annual picnics here Wednesday and nearly 4,000 former residents of the two prairie provinces were in attendance.

The Alberta Society picnic in Beacon Hill Park was opened with a welcome by Mayor Percy E. George. Hon. William C. Simmons replied. Walter Matthews, aided by Basil E. Davies, was in charge of sports. J. E. Cooper, president of the Saskatchewan Association, which held its picnic at Willows Park, said the day had been a success.

Offer $5,000 Reward

TACOMA (AP)—A reward of $5,000 has been offered by the Ex-Lax Company of New York for information leading to the finding of Sidney Matz, vice-president of the company, who disappeared July 8 while flying from Ellensburg, Wash., to Seattle. The company telegraphed instructions to the Tacoma News-Tribune to advertise the reward in today's paper.

Veteran of both World Wars, Governor-General Alexander paused several times to talk with members of the guard of honor before the Legislative Buildings. Here he questions CPO. Clifford Henze about the actions he saw in the Second World War.

Argentina Demands Falkland Islands

BUENOS AIRES (Reuter)—Agitation by Argentina for return of the Falkland Islands, occupied by Great Britain in 1833, has been renewed after a long period of silence on the question.

A statement issued by the youth of the Radical Party, calling for immediate return of the islands to Argentina, touched off a resolution in the Chamber of Deputies which called for intervention in the case by the Security Council of United Nations.

Later, following the issuance of a new series of British postage stamps for the Falkland Islands dependencies, another resolution was submitted to Congress, asking the government to report on what measures, if any, had been taken to protest the British move.

This action was followed by newspaper attacks on the British Labor government. Editorial writers claimed issuance of the stamps indicated a persistent disregard of Argentine rights in the islands.

The Falklands constitute an archipelago of about 100 islands with a total area of 4,618 square miles. Latest figures estimate the population at 2,500, mostly British. The principal industry is sheep farming.

Outlaw Atom Bomb
Red Cross Asks

OXFORD, Eng. (CP) — The League of Red Cross Societies voted Wednesday to ask the next international conference of the Red Cross to place the atomic bomb on its outlaw list.

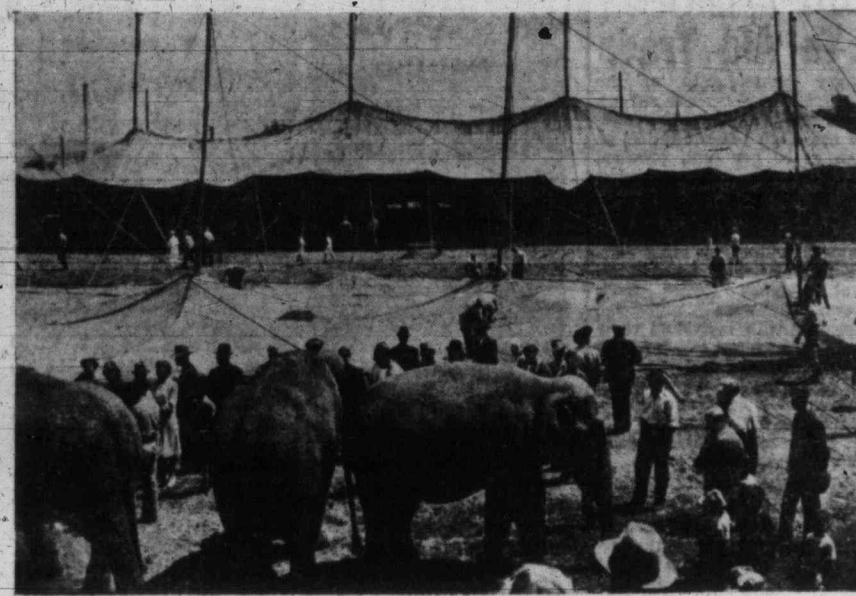

The Belgian Red Cross delegation sought to amend the atomic bomb resolution to include outlawing of concentration camps, deportations, and the taking of hostages in warfare, but the Polish and Russian delegates urged the motion be passed as it stood.

Commissioner To Probe
B.C. Foundry Strike

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal labor department has under consideration a request by British Columbia Labor Minister Pearson that it appoint a commissioner in the Vancouver foundry strike. While it was understood the request will be complied with, there was no indication as to who would be named or when the appointment might be made.

West Coast Shipyards
Laying Off 150 Workers

VANCOUVER (CP) — An official of West Coast Shipyards announced here Wednesday night that 150 employees are to be laid off because of a shortage of work. Fifty received their notices Wednesday, and the remainder will be issued today. The company has been engaged in re-conversion work.

This is the big top of the Clyde Beatty Circus just before it bloomed out over Victoria West Park.

First day of the circus performance in Victoria was an outstanding success. In the afternoon and evening, more than 8,000 people streamed into the big top and wandered around the circus grounds inspecting the animals and attending the side-show.

The circus was complete, from the smell of the cries of "Candy for the elephants" to the elephants like candy.

Feature event of the circus was circus-owner Clyde Beatty's appearance in the centre ring steel case with 32 lions and tigers. The huge cats flowed through an exciting performance with an occasional flash of the paw toward the tamer and snarls which thrilled the audience.

It was hard for the audience to decide which performance it liked best as the fast-moving troupe went through its faultless performance.

Mrs. Harriett presented a huge Asiatic elephant and a Royal Bengal tiger in the same cage, and at her command, the tiger jumped to a seat on the elephant's back and later jumped through a burning hoop.

The audience held its breath while the Great Olveras presented their act with a long steel pole, one performer balancing the pole on his forehead, while his woman partner did gymnastics at the pole's top.

CATCHES BAR BY HEELS

Miss Estrelita topped a faultless performance on the flying trapeze by doing a forward somersault and catching the trapeze bar by her heels.

Joe Segrist, of the Flying Concellos, did a triple-somersault from the flying bar to the catcher's hands, and two of the aerial artists passed each other in mid-air to reach their respective bars.

Other performances include the sensational De Waynes, teeter-board acrobats, formerly featured by Rudy Vallee and his U.S. Coast Guard revue; Don Francisco and Phil Escalante, on the slack wire; Jack Joyce and his high school and liberty horses; Morale's performing dogs; Martha Joyce's military ponies; Kenneth Waite's comical contingent of clowns, the Escalante troupe of aerial performers, and the performing elephants, featuring a "walking mount" on the hippodrome track. Trained by Silvers Madison, the elephants were presented by Miss Jean Evans and Miss Josephine Madison.

LION JUMPED TIGER

Before the show, Mr. Beatty expressed some concern as to whether or not his spinning tiger would perform the trick. The night before, at Courtenay, he said, a lion had jumped the tiger during its performance and

U.S. May Cut Tariff, Empire Drop Preferences To Aid Trade

WASHINGTON (AP)—Tariff cutting took the top spot today on the United States program for expanding global trade.

As a quick follow-up to the $3,750,000,000 loan to Britain, some 30 or more inter-departmental committees are at work within the government drafting lists of thousands of commodities on which lower import duties will be considered.

Under the authority of the 1934 Trade Agreements Act, renewed last year, the administration can slash present tariffs as much as 50 per cent, provided U.S. industries are not jeopardized by the cuts.

These reductions, however, will be made applicable only to countries willing to offer comparable concessions.

But whereas earlier trade agreements were negotiated separately with individual countries, present plans call for a 16-power conference, including Britain and Canada, to write a single compact covering not only tariff duties but other trade barriers in the form of quotas, preferences and subsidies.

LONG-RANGE PLANS

Preparations for this conference are regarded by officials here as the beginning of the second stage in long-range United States plans to raise international living standards by freeing and expanding commerce.

The first step as the $3,750,000,000 British loan, finally approved only this week.

Officials here are counting on the trade conference early next year to bring relaxation and ultimate abolishment of United Kingdom trade preferences.

Tariff cuts by this and other countries would round out the program.

When British and Canadian experts met in Washington to negotiate trade agreements in 1938, the Imperial preferences were thoroughly canvassed and Canada and other Dominions agreed to forego some advantages enjoyed in United Kingdom markets. Canada gave up a six-cent per bushel preference in the British market on wheat and some smaller concessions on other products, but, in the main, preferences worked out at the Imperial Economic Conference in Ottawa in 1932 held.

Much has happened since then. During the war the Canadian Trade Department made an extensive survey to determine preferences considered essential to Canadian industry and those which could be dropped without serious injury to export trade.

Many Canadian industries were built up during the war because of Empire preferences, particularly the automobile industry. United States companies with subsidiaries in Canada have supplied Commonwealth markets from Canadian plants. The same holds true of copper, lead and other base metals, preferences on which helped develop Canadian mines at a time when assured markets outside the Empire were hard to get.

The recent revaluation of the Canadian dollar on parity with United States funds is seen in some circles as a tendency for Canada to get somewhat away from Empire preference.

A.F.L. Council Plans National Offensive To Boost Pensions

The Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council (A.F.L.) Wednesday night decided to institute a nation-wide drive to better conditions for aged citizens.

Decision to launch this drive followed a report by William McLaughlin, chairman of the committee formed to investigate the conditions of old-age pensioners. He said the committee had received favorable comment from other interested parties and had been "informed that on submission of facts and requests for action by federal cabinet ministers, the only result was an increase in pay for federal members."

Resolutions dealing with social security, labor codes and all branches of social legislation were being drawn up for submission to the Trades and Labor Congress convention to be held in September in Windsor, Charles Chivers, chairman of the legislative committee, reported. All unions were requested to submit their resolutions, with those the council is preparing.

PLASTERERS SEEK UNION

Mr. Chivers also reported a majority of the plasterers in Victoria had asked to be organized and in a short time all plasterers would be contacted.

V. Baines outlined the strike situation at the Vancouver Daily Province. The International Typographical Union would continue to fight, "right down the line," he said. He praised the support the typographers were receiving from various unions in Vancouver.

Alec Eddy, regional labor liaison officer of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, informed the council, the board was still on the job and that it deserved the support and appreciation of the general public in Canada. In order to protect the consumer, subsidies were used wherever practicable, he said.

ERLE A. STEISS

whose appointment as head of their investment department is announced by the London and Western Trusts Company Limited. Mr. Steiss, just released from the army, has been for the past two years on loan to the British military government engaged in work in the Allied control of the German banking system and of trade and industry in the Bochum area of the Ruhr, Germany. He is a graduate of the University of Toronto in commerce and finance and of Harvard University in finance and accounting. Mr. Steiss brings to his new position a wide experience in the investment field in United States and Canada through his association with Standard Statistics, New York, and as chief statistician for many years with one of the largest investment trusts in Canada. This wide experience in finance will make him a valuable addition to the company's personnel.

600 At 'Bay' Picnic At Shawnigan

Sunny skies and warm breezes set the stage for 600 men, women and children who traveled in eight E. & N. Railway coaches and a number of private cars Wednesday afternoon to the annual staff picnic of the Hudson's Bay Co. at Shawnigan.

Employees and friends packed an old-fashioned basket lunch. There were many family groups present.

A public address system provided music throughout the day, and aquatic sports of all kinds, including exciting canoe-tilting, were held. Canoes, rowboats and power boats were used on the lake and nearly every picnicer took at least one dip before the day was out.

Tug-o-war, egg and spoon and three-legged races and a married women's rolling-pin throwing contest drew the largest number of entries.

Schubert Club Presents Program

An interesting and delightful program was presented by the 26-voice Schubert Club at the Summer School of Education Wednesday evening under the direction of Frederic King.

One of the most pleasing airs was the musical setting of Shelley's "Music When Soft Voices Die" by Charles Wood.

Madie Carver appeared as soprano soloist in "Ave Maria" and Dorothy Gough acted as accompanist for the entire evening.

Dudley Wickett was tenor soloist, and among the selections he gave were Schubert's "Impatience," the "Organ-Grinder," and "The Wanderer."

Miss Lola Kenilr, soprano, sang a group of solos and Marion Inglis and Marjorie Boorman were heard in two duets.

This morning Peggy Walton, soprano, and John Beckwith, pianist, appeared in a joint recital.

Local Scots Predict Smart Competition For Highland Games

"It has all the earmarks of being a good show, the best we've ever staged," commented Duncan MacBride today with regard to the annual presentation of the Highland Games in the James Ray MacDonald Park enclosure July 27.

Lieutenant-Governor Woodward will officiate at the opening ceremonies that will ring the curtain on the colorful Scots' day at 9 in the morning.

President Jimmy Dewar reports that in addition to a large program of sports events in the field and on the track, which will bring together some of the finest athletes in the province and elsewhere, there will be lively competition in the piping and Highland dancing events.

"We have been assured a good entry in the pipe band competitions and I understand that the ex-C.W.A.C. pipe band is being reformed for the occasion," reports Dewar.

Porky Andrews, Campbell Forbes and Hank Rowe, three athletes who have been in a prominent position in the local sports world for many years, are among those who will be lending a hand in the day's operations.

The Victoria Flying "V" track and field team, under the guidance of coach Archie McKinnon and former Olympic star Bruce Hamber, will be the star heavily featured in the athletic features of the program. The team made a splendid showing last week in Vancouver's Caledonia Games.

Seals Register 12th Straight Ball Win

The pitching of husky Cliff Melton, extended the San Francisco Seals longest winning streak of the season to 12 straight games and held firm their half-game prop today at the head of Coast League baseball.

Melton, former New York Giant, won his 14th game to seven losses last night, defeating the Hollywood Stars, 3 to 2.

The second-place Oakland A's blanked the third-ranked Angels of Los Angeles 3 to 0 behind the five-hit hurling of Cotton Pippin, who registered his 11th win against five defeats.

Portland's 1945 pennant-winning Beavers overwhelmed the last-place Seattle Rainiers 9 to 2, leaving three and a half games between them and the cellar.

The Sacramento Solons and San Diego Padres went into the 11th inning with the count knotted, and a Solon rookie, shortstop Fred Harrington, belted home a 7 to 6 victory.

Seattle's 2-1 win over Portland was aided by a pair of runs to provide the margin of victory for Manager Jim Lackie's top-berth Clips senior A men-fastballers when they chalked up a 5 to 3 triumph Wednesday evening over second-place Hoyle-Brown.

It was a keen pitching battle between Ciro's Vic Burt and H-B's Norm Martin until the eighth, which opened with the score knotted 3 to 3. In the closing half of this frame, Lackie's lads got to hurler Martin for the deciding runs.

Burt, allowed five safeties, while Martin yielded eight. The former fanned seven, walked three, while Martin breezed five and gave no free trips. Errors were rather on the heavy side, wholesale men erring six times, Ciro's four.

Teams finished the first lining all even with a run each. There was no more scoring until the fifth, when Ciro's tallied once. H-B's, managed by Lloyd Jones, tied it up again in the top of the sixth. Each side netted once in the seventh to remain neck-and-neck.

PITCHES WELL
Out at Sidney Etta Sommer turned in a sparkling performance on the mound for Victoria Box and Paper-senior B-A girls to pave the way for her team's 16 to 0 victory over the Saanich representatives. She pitched four-hit ball. In the B-B fair sex department New Method Laundry won by default from R.C.N.A.D.

Youth Action Committee got off to a bad start earlier in the season, but appear to be on the beam now. In their B men's B section scrap with Penguins they hung up a 10 to 7 win.

With winning hurler Al Turcotte striking out 10 batter, juvenile Eagles took the measure of Lake's Top-notch 12 to 2 last evening in a Minor Baseball League fixture.

National Race Tightens

Chicago Cubs Move Up

Brooklyn's dismal slump and the St. Louis Cardinals' habit of losing to the Phillies is leaving the door wide open for Chicago Cubs in the National League pennant scramble.

Although the Dodgers still rule Ford Frick's roost by a half game, many baseball men believe the real 1946 race in September will find the Cards battling for the flag.

Counted out of the race and rated "just another wartime club" in the early spring calculations, the Bruins today are a strong third, breathing hard on the necks of St. Louis and only 3½ games out of first place.

The Cubs made ground yesterday by drubbing the Boston Braves, 10 to 0, in the afternoon and then watching both the Brooks and Cards bow under the arcs.

St. Louis once again refused to take advantage of a chance to regain the lead when they dropped a 10 to 7 decision. It was the fifth time in 11 meetings the Phils had beaten the Birds.

Brooklyn staggered to a fifth successive setback at Cincinnati, 5 to 2, their seventh defeat in eight starts on the current western tour.

Rookie Ralph Kiner gunk New York Giants with a three-run homer and two singles behind Pittsburgh's Nick Strincevich, 8 to 5.

Attendance Mark

All major league attendance records went by the boards at the Yankee Stadium when the New Yorkers lured 30,159 customers to boost the season high.

Eighth-Inning Rally Earns Ciro's Win Over Hoyle-Brown

Bunched hits by Hilton, Burt and Holness in the eighth inning paid off with a pair of runs to provide the margin of victory for Manager Jim Lackie's top-berth Clips senior A men-fastballers when they chalked up a 5 to 3 triumph Wednesday evening over second-place Hoyle-Brown.

It was a keen pitching battle between Ciro's Vic Burt and H-B's Norm Martin until the eighth, which opened with the score knotted 3 to 3. In the closing half of this frame, Lackie's lads got to hurler Martin for the deciding runs.

Chicago Cubs Move Up

Brooklyn's dismal slump and the St. Louis Cardinals' habit of losing to the Phillies is leaving the door wide open for Chicago Cubs in the National League pennant scramble.

Although the Dodgers still rule Ford Frick's roost by a half game, many baseball men believe the real 1946 race in September will find the Cards battling for the flag.

Counted out of the race and rated "just another wartime club" in the early spring calculations, the Bruins today are a strong third, breathing hard on the necks of St. Louis and only 3½ games out of first place.

The Cubs made ground yesterday by drubbing the Boston Braves, 10 to 0, in the afternoon and then watching both the Brooks and Cards bow under the arcs.

St. Louis once again refused to take advantage of a chance to regain the lead when they dropped a 10 to 7 decision. It was the fifth time in 11 meetings the Phils had beaten the Birds.

Brooklyn staggered to a fifth successive setback at Cincinnati, 5 to 2, their seventh defeat in eight starts on the current western tour.

Rookie Ralph Kiner gunk New York Giants with a three-run homer and two singles behind Pittsburgh's Nick Strincevich, 8 to 5.

Attendance Mark

All major league attendance records went by the boards at the Yankee Stadium when the New Yorkers lured 30,159 customers to boost the season high.

Eighth-Inning Rally Earns Ciro's Win Over Hoyle-Brown

Bunched hits by Hilton, Burt and Holness in the eighth inning paid off with a pair of runs to provide the margin of victory for Manager Jim Lackie's top-berth Clips senior A men-fastballers when they chalked up a 5 to 3 triumph Wednesday evening over second-place Hoyle-Brown.

It was a keen pitching battle between Ciro's Vic Burt and H-B's Norm Martin until the eighth, which opened with the score knotted 3 to 3. In the closing half of this frame, Lackie's lads got to hurler Martin for the deciding runs.

Burt, allowed five safeties, while Martin yielded eight. The former fanned seven, walked three, while Martin breezed five and gave no free trips. Errors were rather on the heavy side, wholesale men erring six times, Ciro's four.

Teams finished the first lining all even with a run each. There was no more scoring until the fifth, when Ciro's tallied once. H-B's, managed by Lloyd Jones, tied it up again in the top of the sixth. Each side netted once in the seventh to remain neck-and-neck.

'Y' Swimmers Prepare For 3 Mainland Meets

Up at the Y.M.C.A. the Flying "Y" Swimming Club executives have emerged from a big huddle with the decision to seek added aquatic laurels to their 1946 record in an early-August program that embraces a series of three meets on the mainland.

At first it was thought that only the 40th annual Kelowna international regatta, Aug. 7 and 8, rated as the year's best outdoor swimming and diving show in the northwest, was on the traveling menu for the "Y" boys and girls. Since, however, coach Archie McKinnon has received invitations for his performers to take part in the West Vancouver Aquatic Association gala in West Vancouver's Dundarave regatta Aug. 3, and to send swimmers to a Williams Lake show following the Kelowna championships.

"And the result is," says the widely-known McKinnon, "we are going to embrace them all on the same journey and they will wind up our summer outdoor appearances for the year."

MANY TITLES AT STAKE
The Dundarave and Kelowna shows both have B.C. championships at stake. At the former there will be eight titles on the block and 21 at the Okanagan classic.

Asked how many swimmers would be making the trip, McKinnon said the number would be between 15 and 20. Present plans call for only about six of the better performers appearing at Williams Lake.

Last year the "Y" squad almost made a clean sweep of the major honours in the Kelowna meet. Here's the Victoria record: 21 firsts, 14 seconds, 14 thirds, won eight of the nine relays entered, won three of the four aggregate awards. While the coach has plenty of confidence in the ability of his proteges, he points out the winning qualities of his team will depend a lot on the strength of American clubs participating.

The Kelowna show is rated as B.C.'s equivalent to Alberta's Calgary Stampede, the whole town going all-out in hospitality to its big invasion of visitors on the occasion.

Victoria swimmer Bob Johnstone, now a senior but whose time in the half-mile scored a Canadian junior record which has never been beaten, is the individual McKinnon gives credit to attend a swimming meet at Williams Lake.

While stationed at the lake with the Provincial Police, Johnstone stirred up considerable enthusiasm in swimming. And the residents of the town did wonder about it. Johnstone wired down to McKinnon asking him to set down the specifications for the building of a pool. The result is that today the lake town boasts a 25-yard outdoor pool. Supporting the swimming enterprise is the Williams Lake Chamber of Commerce.

Lawn Bowling

In Victoria lawn bowling circles they are looking forward eagerly to the staging of the Greater Victoria Lawn Bowling Association yearly international tournament opening Aug. 3. This big meet usually attracts better than 500 entries from all over western Canada and the Pacific coast.

The Victoria Lawn Bowling Club's effort recently on behalf of the "Save the Children" fund netted $200. Victoria West club will stage a like attraction Saturday.

G. A. Marconini, H. Jackson, P. E. Corcoran and Charles Hastings are participating in Vancouver's annual tournament now in progress.

In the Wilkerson Shield inter-club doubles play is progressing into the finals stages. Marconini and Jackson, Victoria club, will oppose Baker and McKenzie, Victoria West club, and Johnston and Bryant, Vic. West, will meet Davies and Evans, Canadian Pacific club.

How Peoples Complicate Trieste Problem

By ROBERT N. COOL
 In deciding to internationalize Trieste, under the protection of the United Nations' Security Council, the Big Four Foreign Ministers sought a compromise solution for one of Europe's most involved problems. Two conditions had to be kept constantly in mind: The many different peoples bordering the head of the Adriatic Sea; and the historical and geographical factors which established their interests in the disputed port.

Though neither Italy nor Yugoslavia can be completely satisfied with the solution—each having demanded Trieste for itself—the United Nations may be able to insure that at least a free Trieste will fulfill its original function as a gateway to Central Europe and the Balkans.

VIA HAMBURG

In Italian hands, from 1920 until World War II, it was prevented from doing this, according to some authorities, because Italian customs restrictions had the effect of subordinating Trieste to rival ports in Italy proper. With no other large Adriatic port, Yugoslavians found it cheaper to ship their goods through Hamburg while Italians had better ports right at home.

This situation caused a sharp decline in the commercial importance of Trieste, which before 1914 was second only to Genoa and Marseille in the Mediterranean, and had become Central Europe's greatest insurance centre.

THERE 1,500 YEARS
 Trieste, Pola and Fiume have large Italian populations, though they are surrounded by Slav peoples who have occupied the northeastern coast of the Adriatic for 1,500 years. Numbering about 2,000,000, the Slovenes, around Trieste, are distinct from the Croats and Serbians, who border them on the south in polyglot Yugoslavia.

There has also been a German penetration in this disputed region. "Islands" of Austrians preceded the Italian settlement in the trading centres of Istria.

West of the newly-proposed Italo-Yugoslav line live peasants called "Friuli" who speak an ancient language that is part German and part Italian.

Modern Trieste was created by Germans in the 1840's when railway lines from the north were extended to the Adriatic. Then part of the Austrian Empire, Trieste grew from a fishing village to a flourishing seaport with terminals, factories and busy trading establishments. For years it was a leading port for emigration to America.

WORLD WAR I EVENTS
 Italy entered World War I on the promise of being given Trieste and Pola—the latter an Austrian naval base. Thus spearheads of German "Mitteleuropa" expansion were taken over by the Italians seeking to extend their influence around the Adriatic.

Fiume had been declared a Free City, but in 1919 it was seized in an Italian push.

Yugoslav sources claimed more than 600,000 Slovenes and Croats had fallen under Italian rule in Istria after World War I.

The proposed new "French line" settlement of the Italo-Yugoslav boundary would give Yugoslavia an area of about 3,000 square miles. In this region live approximately 128,000 Italians and 375,000 Yugoslavs.

Trieste's free zone would embrace about 300 square miles containing some 400,000 people.

Woman Choked By Unknown Assailant On Pandora Avenue

A married woman was choked into unconsciousness by an unknown assailant near her home in the 1100 block of Pandora Avenue shortly before 11:25 Wednesday night. The woman was walking on the sidewalk on her way home at the time.

Police said the assailant ran up behind the woman, caught her by the neck, threw her to the ground, and choked her until she was unconscious. Contents of her purse were left intact and she was not criminally assaulted. Regaining consciousness shortly afterwards, she reached home and phoned police who searched the district without result.

The section of Pandora Avenue where the assault took place is between Cook and Chambers Streets.

Edgar Bergen Plans To Visit Victoria

Edgar Bergen, who arrived in Seattle Wednesday aboard his own plane from California, is expected to arrive in Victoria shortly. Mr. Bergen is accompanied by his wife, Charlie McCarthy, is not with him.

Plans are now being laid for distribution of approximately 170,000 ration books No. 6 during the week of September 9 to 14, throughout Vancouver Island, A. B. Food, local foods ration officer, War-time Prices and Trade Board, said today.

Specific distribution dates will be set later by the local ration boards of each district.

"We are now arranging for special representatives to distribute books to persons in outlying areas on the west of Vancouver Island and other isolated spots," Mr. Food said.

"We are also arranging with industrial groups, such as timber outfits, to distribute books to their employees."

Victoria, Island Policemen Win Many Revolver Contests

Victoria and Vancouver Island were "put on the map" in the pistol competitions of the B.C. Rifle Association's annual five-day shoot at North Vancouver Wednesday.

The shoot opened Monday and Wednesday's events were for revolver competitors only.

A B.C. Police team from the Island nosed out a crack U.S. Treasury delegation from Washington to win the 38 individual centre-fire team event. Third was the Seattle Police team while five Victoria policemen taking part, were fourth. Nine teams competed.

The winning B.C. Police team was composed of Inspector C. Clark, Sgt. Jake Young, Corporal Jack Henry, Constable W. F. Conlin and Constable Joe Gibault. The city police team included Sgt. Steve Dunnell and Constables Charlie Webb, Reg. Lanning, Jack Mason and Alex Briggs.

Lanning and Webb from the city police, and Young from the B.C. force, made particularly good showings in individual competitions.

The representative's work, said Mr. Eyres, would be specifically concerned with the interests of trade and industry in the province and will be co-ordinated with the work of the federal trade commissioner service in London and throughout the United Kingdom.

His directive will also be related to the work of the Dominion agriculture representatives in London and specialist trade commissioners under timber or other headings.

The main objective of this new development, said Mr. Eyres, will be to place the necessary emphasis on the special problem of B.C. in the United Kingdom by government assistance to exporters and importers and industrialists of B.C.

The program of the Department of Trade and Industry on exports from the United Kingdom is now being studied with a view to working in closest cooperation with the British trade commissioner service through H. Oldham, commissioner in Vancouver.

The fourth in a series of Wednesday evening band concerts in Beacon Hill Park, sponsored by the B.C. Electric Railway Company, attracted an audience Wednesday night that completely filled all available seats and overflowed into the open space in the vicinity of the bandstand. Many people listened to the concert from their parked cars.

Miss Grace Adams, soprano, and Arthur Stringer, baritone, each contributed two numbers to the program.

The band, under the conductorship of Alfred Prescott, played a program of popular numbers, including the "Overture to Lustspiel (Kela Bela)."

The fifth concert will be played in Beacon Hill Park next Wednesday evening at 7:30.

The Religious Society of Friends (Quakers) will hold a picnic at the Willows Park, July 24, from 4:30, and will welcome visitors interested in the society.

Randall Willing To Build 300 New Barns

S. W. Randall, president of the Colwood Park Racing Association, in Victoria today said that if the by-law authorizing sale of Willows-Fairgrounds to his association for $86,000 is approved by the ratepayers next Thursday he will start work immediately on the demolition of the old stables.

This fall he plans erection of 300 new cement barns, erection of a wire fence around the whole grounds and the landscaping of the park area to improve its appearance.

He reiterated his statement that so far as he was concerned the by-law goes "as is." He said he might call on the City Hall later in the day to see the mayor and aldermen.

Registered extra-provincially were: Mabrown, Inc., head office, Seattle, head B.C. office, Vernon, and Curtis Distributing Co. Ltd., head office, Toronto, head B.C. office, Vancouver.

Investigate Bond For Convicted Man

Ordered in city police court Wednesday to post a $1,000 bond by 11 this morning to be of good behavior for 12 months after he was found guilty of threatening his former fiancée's life, Alfred Max Harcher was remanded until tomorrow morning in order that the financial standing of his bondsman could be investigated.

The bondsman was brought to the city from Vancouver and Prosecutor Claude L. Harrison suggested that before accepting his sureties, the police should determine whether or not they were authentic.

SURPRISED, PERTURBED—I have been shocked to read in the press that my name has been linked with espionage activities," declared Miss Agatha Chapman, above. The final report of the Royal Commission on Espionage said Miss Chapman, a Bank of Canada economist, had acted as contact between two alleged Russian agents in Ottawa. Miss Chapman's great-grandfather was Sir Charles Tupper, one of the Fathers of Confederation.

20 Veterans' Homes Ready But Vacant

Twenty homes built in Victoria for veterans are ready for occupancy but still are vacant because the government has not set a price on them. Robert Knight, chairman of the zone council of the Canadian Legion told a meeting of the Esquimalt Dockyard branch of the Legion Wednesday night.

In Canada 400,000 housing units were required, he said, urging that the various government departments working on housing be consolidated under one head.

He held action was long overdue on plans submitted to Ottawa three months ago on a veterans' home or institution for lower Vancouver Island.

C. R. D. Ferris of the B.C. government motion picture travel bureau showed sound movies in technicolor of the P. G. E. Railway and a film on the Cariboo.

A. H. C. Jones, charter president, and K. G. Slade, immediate past president, were presented with past president medals by Mr. Knight.

W. A. Hadley, a member of the branch who joined the Royal Navy 62 years ago, gave a history of the navy.

Chinese Civil War

"NANKING (AP)—Rival Chinese Government and Communist armies were on the march along the Yangtze River today and clashes north of this vital artery of China posed a threat of full-scale civil war."

Gen. Chou En-lai, leader of the Communist delegation in Nanking, charged the government with "aggression" and told a press conference "local conflicts are blossoming rapidly into civil war."

Peng Hsueh-pei, Minister of Information, denied this and asserted Communist armies were marching "from the north upon the Yangtze, along whose banks lie Nanking and the great port of Shanghai."

No Boost In Prices Of Seeds Foreseen

Provincial Agriculture Department officials here foresaw today little likelihood of the prices of seeds being increased as a result of suspension Wednesday night of maximum prices on all seeds, except seeds of field peas and field beans, other than those of registered or certified grade.

Announcement that the maximum prices had been suspended was made by the Dominion Agriculture Department and the War-time Prices and Trade Board in Ottawa.

A report from Ottawa said reason for the action was because supplies of practically all types of seeds were sufficient to meet Canadian requirements.

As a result of lifting of the price control regulations, the Special Products Board no longer will be the sole exporter of seeds of alfalfa, red clover, alsike clover and alsike-white clover mixture, nor will it provide for the issue of participation certificates. The seed export office at Lindsay, Ont., will be closed Aug. 31, the announcement from Ottawa said.

Hollywood Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It is about time we were coming to grips with the bow-tie question. The nearest thing to a controversy in men's clothing since the zoot suit went into decline, is whether or not men should wear bow ties.

Bow ties definitely are on the upsurge. Men's stores that once kept them hidden among the spats and garters now are offering large cases of them. At Hollywood parties they often reach a percentage of 33 1/3.

Most inveterate bow wearers, lots of them newspapermen, frown on the "floppy monstrosity" which Frank Sinatra sports.

Searching for comment on the momentous issue, I received a variety of answers from Hollywood actors:

Walter Pidgeon: I'm jealous of a man who can wear a bow. I don't have the face for it—it looks too much like a dandy with one on.

Van Heflin: I'm against ties of all kinds.

George Sanders: I can't stand bows. Perhaps it is because when I was a boy I always got into trouble when I wore a bow tie.

Frank Morgan: They're okay for long, agamic faces, but not for a nice, fat one like mine.

Sonny Tufts: A single man should never wear bow ties. They require too much attention and it gives women a chance to trap him.

Eddie Albert: After four years in the navy I've forgotten how to tie them.

Lee Bowman: Bow ties are all right for sports clothes when they are neat and out of the way.

Lon McCallister: I agree with the newspapermen. Although I have only one bow tie, I wear it often. And it's not the "drooly" kind. It's the straight collegiate type.

But, of course, the test is whether the women like them. One reaction is Joan Crawford: "I hate bow ties. When Sinatra sings, I close my eyes."

PRESIDENT SIGNS BRITISH LOAN—President Truman signs the $3,750,000,000 British Loan Bill at the White House in Washington, D.C., while Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, left, Senator Alben W. Barkley, center, and British Ambassador Lord Inverchapel, watch.

Kelly Turns Down New Sculls Offer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A special sculls race between Jack Kelly Jr., of Philadelphia, and Jean Spheriades of France, is "out of the question," says Kelly's father.

"I never heard a word about such a race until I saw it in the papers," said Kelly senior in a telephone interview from his summer home in Ocean City, N.J. "Nobody ever consulted me about it or I would have told them it was impossible."

Spheriades recently defeated the younger Kelly at Henley-on-Thames, England, in the finals for the Diamond Sculls championship. Upon Kelly's return to this country, a special return match in the United States was proposed by Michael E. Murphy, Philadelphia oil man.

Murphy cabled an offer to pay the champion's full expenses if he would meet Kelly for a $5,000 cup. Yesterday Elie Spheriades, father and manager of the champion, said his son would accept the offer.

"Spheriades won the race at Henley fair and square," Kelly's father—who is his trainer—declared. "He is entitled to all the glory which goes with winning the coveted sculls trophy."

Ruffing, Cooper Out With Injuries

NEW YORK (AP) — Pitcher Red Ruffing of New York Yankees, injured June 29 by a bouncer from the bat of Hank Majeski of the A's, has a broken knee-cap, an X-ray made Wednesday revealed, and will go to a New York hospital for a week's stay.

Ruffing will have to wear a plastic cast for several weeks longer. The doctor has told him he may be out from four to six weeks, so little more pitching can be expected from him this year.

At Pittsburgh it was announced that Walker Cooper, $175,000 catching importation of the New York Giants, will be out of action for a month, with a broken finger.

Emery Neale Wins P.N.W. Tennis Title

SEATTLE (AP) — Emery Neale of Portland, Ore., bagged the northwest sectional title Wednesday in the Washington State tennis tournament by downing Jim Skelton of Vancouver, in a tough four-set match, 4-6, 6-4, 6-2, 6-3.

Neale, a former Stanford University ace, dominated the final three sets with his booming serves and hard cross-court shots. Neale did not compete in the regular tournament, in which he is seeded No. 1. The sectional play was open only to members of northwest clubs.

Primo Carnera Will Make Tour Of U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — Primo Carnera, the oversized Italian who once held the heavyweight boxing championship of the world, is returning to the United States soon for a one-year tour which he hopes will swell his pocketbook and Italy's bread basket and, incidentally, land him a job in the movies.

Harry Harris of Los Angeles, a former fight promoter who will manage the former champion on a tour of this country as a wrestler and guest referee, said that in addition to the purses he will receive for his appearances, Carnera will ask each promoter along the way to turn over a percentage of the gate for the purchase of food, clothing and farm machinery for Italy.
